Egyptians File Own Version Of Suez Dispute With U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Egypt has come up with its own call for U. N. Security Council intervention in the Suez Canal dispute. The Egyptian request will be taken up by the council Wednesday along with an earlier British-French demand for action.

Cairo's move came a day after Britain and France had asked the council to consider the situation created by Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the 103-mile waterway.

The 11-nation council's first task will be to decide whether to debate the complaints together or separately, and if separately, in what order. The council is not expected to get down to the canal dispute before next week.

Egyptian Delegate Omar Loutfi presented Egypt's request for council consideration in a letter to Emilio Nunez-Portuondo of Cuba, council president for September. It asked that the council consider "action against Egypt by some powers, particularly France and the United Kingdom, which constitute a danger to international peace and security and are serious violations of the charter of the United Nations."

BRITAIN AND France had asked the council to consider the unilateral action of the Egyptian government in bringing to an end the system of international operation of the Suez Canal, which was confirmed and completed by the Suez Canal convention of 1888.

The convention guarantees freedom of the canal to all ships in peace and war.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said early this week that Britain wants the council to endorse the plan for a Suez Canal Users' Assn. put forward at an 18-nation meeting last week in London. Most of the 18 nations, representing more than 90 per cent of the normal canal traffic, are expected to join the association at an organizing meeting set for Oct. 1 in London.

Egypt already has rejected an earlier proposal from the 18 nations for international control of the Suez, but there so far has been no official Egyptian reaction to the idea for a users' agency.

High Midwest Soil Bank Fund Is Explained

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson says there has been no conscious effort to give Midwest corn farmers any advantage over Southern cotton producers in soil bank benefits.

Declaring his department has administered the soil bank law in "the fairest way" possible and in accordance with the spirit of the legislation as enacted by Congress, he said Monday:

"Obviously, the program was started late so it couldn't apply to some or all crops. Only in 1957 will we have a real test of the program."

He said the department had set up the program as quickly as possible after Congress enacted the law authorizing it. Late crops such as corn managed to come under it during the first year, he said, while much cotton had already been planted.

The Benson statement came as a result of criticism that a high percentage of soil bank funds had been allocated for the Midwest corn belt, a vital area in the forthcoming election. Some critics had contended that the Republican high command had "written off" the Deep South insofar as the election was concerned and was concentrating on "making an impression" in northern farm areas.

Ohioans are expected to receive a total of $8,230,912 in soil bank payments, with $8,090,155 of that marked out for corn producers.

Senate Probers Eye Illinois Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee recalled officials of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. today for questioning about another bank linked to former Illinois State Auditor Orville E. Hodge, embezzler.

Up for study was the way the FDIC handled investigations of the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, at which fraudulent state checks issued by Hodge were cashed.

Hodge, a Republican, was a candidate for reelection until the scandal broke in July. He is in prison after pleading guilty to federal and state charges that he misused more than $1 million.

News In Brief Cyprus Rebels Bomb British

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Rebels blew up a British army vehicle carrying a mobile patrol today, killing one soldier and seriously wounding three others.

The death was the third of a British serviceman in the last three days and the 46th since EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground, launched its bomb- and gun campaign 18 months ago.

Members of EOKA have been using a new technique of setting off bombs by remote control rather than the use of time bombs or grenades that are tossed.

On Sunday four bombs were electrically detonated on a servicemen's recreation beach on the north coast, fatally wounding a British airman and injuring a second. Wires from the bombing scene led 600 yards to a tree-covered hill overlooking the beach.

CALCUTTA (AP)—Nine hundred persons were arrested today as a communist-called general strike, protesting rising prices, paralyzed public transport services in Calcutta and its industrial suburbs. The newspaper The Statesman said prices of essential commodities have risen 26 per cent since January.

ROENNE, Denmark (AP)—A man identified himself as a Polish air force lieutenant crashlanded a jet fighter plane on an uncompleted airstrip here today and asked for political asylum.

ALGIERS (AP)—French troops today claimed 50 nationalist rebels were killed, wounded or captured in the past 24 hours. The rebels continued their new spurt of attacks in the capital killed two French soldiers.

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Generating winds of 125 to 150 miles an hour, Typhoon Harriet veered northward today and this U. S. island fortress battered down for a rough sideswiping blow.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Darul Islam rebels occupied Kutadja airfield in north Sumatra for four hours before Indonesian army units regained it in fierce fighting. The rebels blew up four bridges and cut telephone wires. The Moslem rebels want to establish their own independent state.

Housewives Ask High Potato Prices

RIVERHEAD, N. Y. (AP)—Some 200 farm wives went to Washington today to carry on their fight for higher potato prices. The women say are necessary for their husbands to make a living.

Top grade potatoes recently have been bringing $1.50 per hundred pounds to farmers here. The women and their husbands say the price ought to be at least $2.

The women plan to picket the Department of Agriculture and Secretary of Agriculture Benson. They also expect to see members of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees.

Ike To Ask Farm Folks Be Patient

Speech Tonight Due To Envision What May Be A Long Pull

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower asks American farmers tonight to go along on what he says may be a long pull toward a goal of higher stable prices for what they produce.

Eisenhower took off today for Peoria, Ill., where he will deliver at the Bradley University field house a half-hour farm speech.

It will be carried by CBS radio and television at 8:30 p. m. EST. He will fly back to Washington shortly after the talk.

The White House said the Republican National Committee has sent the U. S. Treasury a $3,971 check to pay for the operations of the presidential plane Columbine III on today's trip.

Eisenhower decided to add an Ohio speaking date to his campaign schedule, a midday speaking appearance in Cleveland Monday before he travels on to Lexington, Ky., for his third nationally broadcast address that night.

Thus, within the span of a week, he will visit three states where the Democrats are working hard to repeat their victories of 1948. Eisenhower carried Illinois and Ohio by substantial margins in 1952. He lost Kentucky by 700.

ON TODAY'S second invasion of the Midwest farm belt, Eisenhower has promised to blueprint an agricultural program aimed at what he calls "the special problems of the farmers and the special treatment they should receive."

Whether this "special treatment" will entail any increase in federal payments to farmers or any major revisions of the administration's agricultural program remained a guarded secret.

Adlai E. Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, said Monday he thinks Eisenhower "owes it to all Americans to say in good faith" what the Republicans have done "to fulfill their commitments they made four years ago."

Secretary of Agriculture Benson says he expects there will be some new things in the Peoria speech, but that in the main Eisenhower "will develop the program we are putting into operation."

Benson disputed Stevenson's contention last weekend that there is a "farm depression." While conceding farm prices are too low, he said:

"Prices received by farmers for milk are increasing seasonally and are likely to continue above 1955 levels for the rest of 1956."

Egg prices this fall will probably be below a year ago with production rising seasonally and the number of laying hens on Sept. 1 up 3 per cent from last year.

While corn prices are expected to decline, the general price level of feed grains probably will average a little higher this fall and winter than a year earlier.

Prices of fresh vegetables for the fall market probably will average a little lower than last year.

Ohio Turnpike Challenged To Chieftain TV Debate

COLUMBUS (AP)—A challenge to a television debate over charges involving the Ohio Turnpike Commission was issued today by Paul M. Herbert, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, to James W. Shocknessy, Democratic chairman of the turnpike commission.

The challenge was in answer to Shocknessy's suggestion that Herbert appear before the commission. It came in a letter from Herbert to Shocknessy.

In the letter, Herbert detailed general charges he made against the commission at the Sept. 12 Ohio Republican Convention.

In substance, Herbert charged: 1. That Shocknessy is a senior member of a law firm which was "special counsel" for two insurance firms which wrote $47 million worth of insurance coverage on turnpike matters.

2. That Shocknessy approved "substantial insurance and bond coverage of turnpike matters" while acting as attorney for the man who controlled the company.

3. That Shocknessy "was instrumental in securing lawyers for the Turnpike Commission," that one firm was paid $372,978 for its services and that this firm, "short-

Benson said they are up seven per cent from last November. "There is no farm depression," he said. "The farm revolt that has been talked about has flattened out. I think some people are heartbroken that this revolt didn't come about."

The secretary said he had talked to thousands of farmers on a recent trip through Minnesota, Nebraska, Illinois and Indiana and that "I found more support for the administration's program on this trip than at any time I've been out over the country."

In Oklahoma City, Stevenson addressed himself specifically to the farmer Monday and said:

"You have had particular reason to feel the neglect and the indifference of a big business administration. For three years the Republican leaders have watched farm prices fall with philosophical calm."

Farm Volume Near '55 Total

Ag Agency Says Dip Seen In Some Crops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department estimated today overall farm output this year should about equal the volume of 1955.

A slight decrease is in sight for crops generally, the department said, but it probably will be offset by slightly higher production of livestock and livestock products.

The production outlook as of Sept. 1 indicated corn and wheat crops 3 per cent larger than last year, and a soybean crop up almost one-fourth, the department said. But the department anticipates substantial declines in production of oats and other feed grains.

A report prepared by the department's Outlook and Situation Board stated that domestic and foreign markets for U. S. farm products continue strong.

The report made these other comments:

PRICES RECEIVED by farmers for milk are increasing seasonally and are likely to continue above 1955 levels for the rest of 1956.

Egg prices this fall will probably be below a year ago with production rising seasonally and the number of laying hens on Sept. 1 up 3 per cent from last year.

First Direct Voice System Opens Today

$42 Million Project Carries 36 Messages All At Same Time

NEW YORK (AP)—The new $42 million transatlantic telephone cable was officially opened today, first direct voice link between the old world and the new.

Promptly at 11 a. m., Cleo F. Craig, board chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., said, "The big moment is at hand. First, we'll talk to London, then Ottawa. In conclusion, we'll officially open service between the United States, Britain and Canada."

He lifted the phone. "This is Cleo Craig in New York calling Dr. Charles Hill in London."

He exchanged greetings with the postmaster general of the British Post Office and then with George Carlyle Marler, Canadian minister of transport in Ottawa.

Their conversations were clear and natural, as though it were a neighborhood call.

People have been talking by phone to Europe since 1927, but their voices have been carried by radiotelephone. These circuits are subject to atmospheric interference and possible jamming in time of emergency.

THE NEW CABLE system, which took more than two years to build, does away with the possibility of these disturbances and thus has national security aspects. It is the joint project of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., (Continued on Page Two)

GOP Readies For Ike Visit In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio Republicans today hurried to arrange a reception for President Eisenhower who will visit Cleveland next Monday.

Highlights of the President's visit will be a speech in Cleveland's Public Square about noon and a motorcade from the square to Cleveland Airport.

Republican Sen. George H. Bender, campaigning for reelection against Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, predicted the crowd for the Public Square speech "will be the largest in the city's history."

"We're planning on putting on a real demonstration," Bender said. "Delegations will be coming in from Youngstown, Akron, Canton and other parts of the state."

The Republicans plan to decorate the square, and asked merchants to display flags.

The President and his wife will arrive by train, but the White House said Eisenhower would not make appearances at stops between Washington and Cleveland.

Eisenhower will confer with party leaders in Hotel Cleveland during the morning.

After the Public Square speech, he will drive to the airport, where he will board a plane for Lexington, Ky. He is scheduled to speak that night at the University of Kentucky, returning to Washington by air.

Hurricane Flossy Dying In Georgia

9 Deaths Blamed On Tropical Blow Spawned In Gulf Of Mexico

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hurricane Flossy subsided into a vast drought-breaking rainstorm as it moved slowly over South Georgia today after causing nine deaths and some property damage in its journey across the Gulf of Mexico and northwest Florida.

The once dangerous storm was reported centered in southwest Georgia, with its top winds at 50 miles, short of full gale force and only half of the velocity reached before it moved inland.

It continued heading between northeast and east northeast at about 10 m.p.h.

In its overland path from Fort Walton Beach, Fla., to Dothan, Ala., to Albany, the storm apparently did nothing worse in the property damage line than to down some trees and power lines.

On the other hand, its accompanying rainfall was breaking the back of drought conditions across southern Alabama and Georgia and northern Florida so that, on balance, Flossy was probably more of a blessing than a disaster in those areas.

THE POTENTIAL casualty list of the storm took a sharp drop early today when the Coast Guard reported the motor vessel Carport located near Grand Isle in the Gulf of Mexico. Missing since Sunday, she was disabled but the 15 aboard her were safe.

Flossy packed winds up to 100 miles an hour into the Florida mainland Monday. She slammed into Fort Walton Beach, generating fierce sandstorms that blasted the paint off automobiles in its path.

Flossy did most of its damage in the Gulf of Mexico.

Two of the Carport's crew drowned Sunday, Flossy's first victims. Others missing in the storm-swept Gulf included two persons in an oil company helicopter, about 12 fishermen and an undetermined number aboard the missing tug Rosalie E.

Damage to oil drilling equipment and ships in the Gulf was unofficially estimated at $2 million. Several houses were unroofed in the beach area near Panama City and there was some damage to piers near the resort city. Five cabin cruisers were sunk and several others were damaged on Dauphin Island near Mobile. Two tugs sank in Mobile Bay but the crews were rescued.

The Red Cross said nearly 10,000 persons were housed in temporary shelters in six northwest Florida counties. There was no estimate of the total number of evacuees along the Louisiana and Mississippi coasts. Several thousand left the danger areas as Flossy approached.

The hurricane left floods in its wake near mammoth Lake Pontchartrain on the outskirts of New Orleans. During the height of the storm the tides were more than five feet above normal.

5 Persons Killed In Chicago Blaze

CHICAGO (AP)—Five persons perished and at least eleven others were injured in a fire which swept a four-story brick tenement on the North Side today.

Scores of persons fled from the building. Several children were dropped from the second floor to persons on the sidewalk below before firemen arrived at the extramarine blaze. None of the injured was in serious condition.

Deputy Marshal Richard Daly said arson was suspected in the fire. He said the blaze started under the stairs in the basement and spread rapidly upward.

"DONUT WITH HANDLE FOR DUNKERS"

I doubt very much whether Donuts like the one in this Doodle suggested by Robert Greger of Miami would be accepted by the public. Half the fun of dunking is getting your fingers in the coffee and soaking the bottom part of your shirt cuff. And handles on Donuts could be dangerous. If they were made out of wood or plastic a lot of commuters would run the risk of choking to death in their rush to catch the 8:15. Of course if the handles were also made out of dough, they could be eaten, but that would defeat the original purpose, because then the handles would have to have handles etc. etc. If you ask me Donuts with Handles would be vicious circles.

Egyptians File Own Version Of Suez Dispute With U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Egypt has come up with its own call for U. N. Security Council intervention in the Suez Canal dispute. The Egyptian request will be taken up by the council Wednesday along with an earlier British-French demand for action.

Cairo's move came a day after Britain and France had asked the council to consider the situation created by Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the 103-mile waterway.

The convention guarantees freedom of the canal to all ships in peace and war.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said early this week that Britain wants the council to endorse the plan for a Suez Canal Users' Assn. put forward at an 18-nation meeting last week in London. Most of the 18 nations, representing more than 90 per cent of the normal canal traffic, are expected to join the association at an organizing meeting set for Oct. 1 in London.

Egypt already has rejected an earlier proposal from the 18 nations for international control of the Suez, but there so far has been no official Egyptian reaction to the idea for a users' agency.

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (AP)—All 14 persons aboard an Air Force C-47 were killed Monday when the twin-engine craft plunged into the sheer northwest edge of 14,172-foot Mt. Yale.

A joint Army-Air Force team equipped with mules started an ascent to the 11,500-foot level to return the bodies.

Among the victims, who included both civilians and military personnel, was a red-haired Women's Army Corps enlisted woman. The bodies were found by a seven-man team which climbed for five hours to reach the scene. Names of the dead were withheld.

Hurricane Flossy Dying In Georgia

9 Deaths Blamed On Tropical Blow Spawned In Gulf Of Mexico

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hurricane Flossy subsided into a vast drought-breaking rainstorm as it moved slowly over South Georgia today after causing nine deaths and some property damage in its journey across the Gulf of Mexico and northwest Florida.

The once dangerous storm was reported centered in southwest Georgia, with its top winds at 50 miles, short of full gale force and only half of the velocity reached before it moved inland.

It continued heading between northeast and east northeast at about 10 m.p.h.

In its overland path from Fort Walton Beach, Fla., to Dothan, Ala., to Albany, the storm apparently did nothing worse in the property damage line than to down some trees and power lines.

On the other hand, its accompanying rainfall was breaking the back of drought conditions across southern Alabama and Georgia and northern Florida so that, on balance, Flossy was probably more of a blessing than a disaster in those areas.

THE POTENTIAL casualty list of the storm took a sharp drop early today when the Coast Guard reported the motor vessel Carport located near Grand Isle in the Gulf of Mexico. Missing since Sunday, she was disabled but the 13 aboard her were safe.

Flossy packed winds up to 100 miles an hour into the Florida mainland Monday. She slammed into Fort Walton Beach, generating fierce sandstorms that blasted the paint off automobiles in its path.

Flossy did most of its damage in the Gulf of Mexico.

Two of the Carport's crew drowned Sunday, Flossy's first victims. Others missing in the storm-swept Gulf included two persons in an oil company helicopter, about 12 fishermen and an undetermined number aboard the missing tug Rosalie E.

Damage to oil drilling equipment and ships in the Gulf was unofficially estimated at $2 million. Several houses were unroofed in the beach area near Panama City and there was some damage to piers near the resort city. Five cabin cruisers were sunk and several others were damaged on Dauphin Island near Mobile. Two tugs sank in Mobile Bay but the crews were rescued.

The Red Cross said nearly 10,000 persons were housed in temporary shelters in six northwest Florida counties. There was no estimate of the total number of evacuees along the Louisiana and Mississippi coasts. Several thousand left the danger areas as Flossy approached.

The hurricane left floods in its wake near mammoth Lake Pontchartrain on the outskirts of New Orleans. During the height of the storm the tides were more than five feet above normal.

5 Persons Killed In Chicago Blaze

CHICAGO (AP)—Five persons perished and at least eleven others were injured in a fire which swept a four-story brick tenement on the North Side today.

Scores of persons fled from the building. Several children were dropped from the second floor before firemen arrived at the extra-alarm blaze. None of the injured was in serious condition.

Deputy Marshal Richard Daly said arson was suspected in the fire. He said the blaze started under the stairs in the basement and spread rapidly upward.

DROODLES By ROGER PRICE

"DONUT WITH HANDLE FOR DUNKERS"

I doubt very much whether Donuts like the one in this Droodle suggested by Robert Greger of Miami would be accepted by the public. Half the fun of dunking is getting your fingers in the coffee and soaking the bottom part of your shirt cuff. And handles on Donuts could be dangerous. If they were made out of wood or plastic a lot of commuters would run the risk of choking to death in their rush to catch the 8:15. Of course if the handles were also made out of dough, they could be eaten, but that would defeat the original purpose, because then the handles would have to have handles etc. etc. If you ask me Donuts with Handles would be vicious circles.

Dick, Estes Continue Campaigns

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The two vice presidential candidates continued their campaign in the Midwest and Far West today.

In Marquette, Mich., Sen. Estes Kefauver said the Eisenhower administration is "taking us down the dreary and familiar Republican road which runs from reaction to ruin."

The Democratic vice-presidential candidate described this as a road "of high cost-of-living and high interest rates, of spotty unemployment and lopsided prosperity, of governmental concern with corporate profits rather than human welfare." He also contended that "the future of the Republican party really belongs to Richard Nixon and the reactionaries who have built him up and whose spokesman he is."

In Salt Lake City, Vice President Nixon fired another blast at Adlai Stevenson.

It has become apparent, he said, that all Stevenson has to "offer to the American people is a carbon copy of the same type of political demagoguery which characterized the Truman Fair Deal."

He accused the Democratic standard-bearer of carrying on "what now appears to be a calculated campaign to divide Americans on a class basis and to set one group in the population against another."

Solon Sees Need For Safer Autos

DAYTON (AP)—Rep. Kenneth A. Roberts (D-Ohio) says his congressional subcommittee "is definitely of the opinion that cars can be built more safely."

"They should include as standard equipment 'many safety devices that have been optional so far,'" Roberts said as his committee opened hearings here today on causes of highway accidents.

"We are still investigating the question of whether manufacturers are putting too much speed in cars," Roberts said. "But we think all cars should have safety belts, air bags that do not fly open on impact, crash paneling and improved steering wheels."

First Direct Voice System Opens Today

the British Post Office and the Canadian Telecommunication Corp.

The new cable can carry 36 voice messages at one time, about three times the traffic that radio-telephone circuits can transmit between this country and abroad. It is the first undersea phone link to span any ocean.

Cost of a three-minute call over the new cable between Britain and any point in the United States will be $12 weekdays and $9 nights and Sundays, plus 10 per cent tax.

The cable was laid under supervision of the Long Lines Department of AT&T, the long distance operating unit of the Bell System. The cable itself was designed by scientists and engineers of Bell Telephone Labs.

The British ship Monarch laid 2,500 miles of underwater cable from Clarendville, Nfld., to Oban, Scotland. From Oban, new trunk lines link the system to London.

On this continent, new land and water sections bring the transatlantic circuits to Portland, Maine, and to Montreal, where they connect with established American and Canadian networks.

The Monarch took two years to do her job, working only in summer, when the stormy North Atlantic supposedly is on its best behavior. The cable ship survived Hurricane Ione in September of 1955, and, though badly battered, finished the job on schedule.

Submarine cables of this type transmit only in one direction, so two had to be laid to make a conversation possible. The twin cables lie 20 miles apart on the ocean floor.

La Paz, Bolivia, is the highest capital in the world. La Paz lies in a valley about 12,000 feet above sea level.

Foreign Direct Voice System Opens Today

The British Post Office and the Canadian Telecommunications Corp. The new cable can carry 36 voice messages at one time, about three times the traffic that radio-telephone circuits can transmit between this country and abroad. It is the first undersea phone link to span an ocean.

Cost of a three-minute call over the new cable between Britain and any point in the United States will be $12 weekdays and $9 nights and Sundays, plus 10 per cent tax.

The cable was laid under supervision of the Long Lines Department of AT&T, the long distance operating unit of the Bell System. The cable itself was designed by scientists and engineers of Bell Telephone Labs.

The British ship Monarch laid 2,500 miles of underwater cable from Clarendon, Nfld., to Oban, Scotland. From Oban, new trunk lines link the system to London.

On this continent, new land and water sections bring the transatlantic circuits to Portland, Maine, and to Montreal, where they connect with established American and Canadian networks.

The Monarch took two years to do her job, working only in summer, when the stormy North Atlantic supposedly is on its best behavior. The cable ship survived Hurricane Ione in September of 1955, and, though badly battered, finished the job on schedule.

Submarine cables of this type transmit only in one direction, so two had to be laid to make a conversation possible. The twin cables lie 20 miles apart on the ocean floor.

La Paz, Bolivia, is the highest capital in the world. La Paz lies in a valley about 12,000 feet above sea level.

U.S. Business Plans Bypass Of Uneasy Suez

New Ships, Pipe Lines Needed If 'Big Ditch' No Longer Available

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The Suez Canal dispute moves to the United Nations Wednesday. But American businessmen most affected — oil companies, shipping interests, exporters and importers — fearing that a long stalemate is ahead, are already making plans to free themselves from too much dependence on use of the big ditch.

Their worst handicap is time. To build the giant tankers and freighters, the oil pipe lines, or even possibly another canal nearby, will take time.

Until this can be done there's the constant threat of a rising cost of shipping and trade, whether in delays at the Suez Canal or in taking the long, expensive way around Africa with the present smaller craft.

And these higher costs would be passed along in time to the American consumer of finished products made from materials that now move more cheaply and swiftly through the Suez Canal.

The U. S. government's Export-Import bank would be asked to lend the half billion dollars needed to move American oil to Europe as an emergency measure to replace Middle East oil lost should the canal be closed or be bypassed in economic warfare.

American business, however, is making the canal dispute much more calmly today than a few weeks back. It has survived the first attack of war jitters and now doesn't look for any fighting and has less fear of a shutdown of Arabian oil fields. It has also survived earlier qualms when talk of a boycott supplanted talk of force.

What business does worry about is just how long the Egyptian, Soviet and other pilots can keep the boats moving without mishap.

The long run view becoming more popular among American businessmen is that shipping must be built to take care of any future trouble now that Nasser seems likely to have his own way — or most of it — about the canal.

Giant oil tankers are already on order and some new ones will shortly join the fleets. But American shipyards complain that shortages of steel are slowing down work on the big tankers designed to carry oil more cheaply than smaller ones that now slide through the Suez.

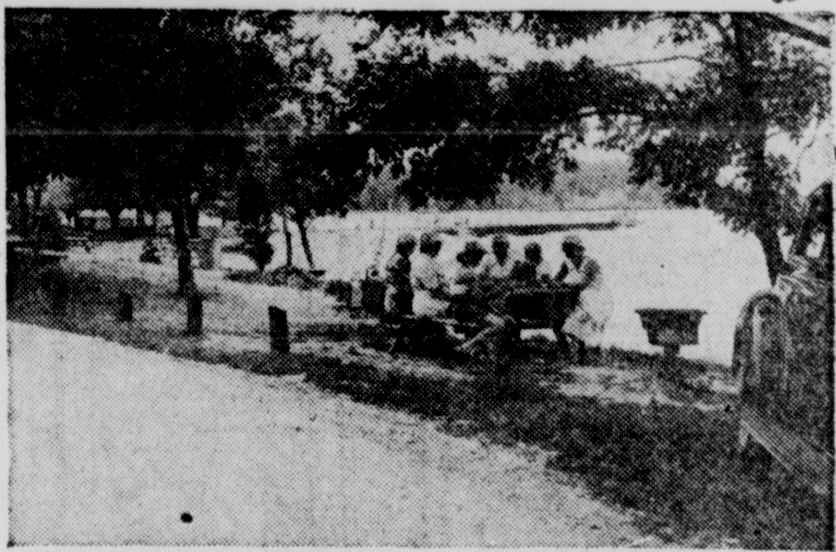

The giants are too big to go through but could make the long run around Africa or from American oil fields to Europe handily.

Oil production in the Western Hemisphere could be stepped up quickly should the canal be closed by design or accident. Output would be enough both to replace the Middle East oil we now import by way of the canal and also the oil which Europe gets from that source.

The big trouble would be transportation. The supply of shipping is already tight because of the large increase in world trade in recent years. It would take more ships to keep the oil moving fast enough around Africa or across the Atlantic.

Until enough new tankers and Catawba Island State Reserve, on State Routes 53 and 357 near Port Clinton, with only seven acres of area, is one of Ohio's smallest publicly-owned recreation spots.

Yet this park attracts a surprisingly large number of visitors during the summer months with picnicking, swimming, boating, and fishing its main attractions.

Signals Mixed Up, Nixon Is Missed

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Several thousand people lined a five-block parade route Monday night, hoping to glimpse Vice President Nixon.

They saw a band, a carload of pretty girls, several convertibles filled with dignitaries and another band. But no Nixon. They dispersed, wondering what had happened to him. Soon another auto rolled down the same route, flanked by motorcycle policemen. There was Nixon, but with few people left to wave to.

A Nixon spokesman said signals must have gotten mixed.

Newest Synthetic Rubber Is Hailed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A new synthetic rubber recently developed could free the United States from its dependence upon imported rubber, says Harvey S. Firestone Jr. He said in an interview that in a national emergency the new synthetic—called Coral—could be used in lieu of rubber from other countries.

Firestone said, however, that it will not replace natural rubber in the near future and that the United States will continue to use all the natural rubber it can import.

Teen-Age Drunks Object Of Study

ATLANTA (AP)—Temperance workers were told here that more than 19,400 boys and girls 19 years old and under were arrested for drunkenness or drunken driving last year.

Miss Ethel Riddle of Evanston, Ill., general secretary of the Youth Temperance Council, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, said the figures do not depict juvenile failure but "a failure of the home and school."

She called temperance instruction in schools as "watered down" and incomplete due to texts that put emphasis on moderation rather than total abstinence.

Everything Wrong On Fishing Trip

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Vernon Staley of Seminole, Okla., headed for Lake Texoma for a fishing trip. He punched a hole in his gasoline tank while making a minor repair. Then his oil line became clogged and he had two flat tires before reaching his camp. Things brightened as he caught some black bass. But then the chain on his stringer broke and the catch was lost.

Next most important requirement, say the bosses, is the ability to find and file information quickly and accurately. When he says "Bring me the file on Jones and Jones" he doesn't want to have to wait while a secretary searches through all the old office drawers, extracting spare nylons and bobby pins in the process.

U.S. Businessmen Outline 'Perfect Secretary' Traits

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Probably the most dreamed-about and sought-after woman in America today is that elusive character, the perfect secretary.

She may be almost any age, say the wistful bosses. She doesn't have to look like Marilyn Monroe — in fact it's better for office efficiency if she doesn't. But she must have that rare gift of anticipating the boss' wishes and making both him and his office run like a precision watch.

Required specifications for this paragon are set forth in a new booklet "The Girl with the Halo," which lists results of a survey among American businessmen in which they were asked to list the qualities they considered most important to the perfect secretary.

No. 1 requirement of a majority of the bosses was initiative. This, they said, was the most important characteristic of their dream-secretary. Surprisingly, it came ahead of typing skill, accuracy and neatness, which they probably took for granted. This highly prized quality was defined by one executive as "the ability to think and the initiative to act."

For instance, if the typewriter breaks down in the boss' absence, he comes back, doing nothing for several days, but should take the initiative and have it repaired at once.

Medina Farmers Ask Federal Aid

MEDINA (AP)—The Medina County Farm Bureau has asked Secretary of Agriculture Benson for disaster aid because of last Friday's killing frost.

Vernon Marcellus, president of the Farm Bureau, said the cold snap destroyed 75 per cent of the corn and placed "survival of many farms in jeopardy."

Federal disaster aid would mean farmers could get loans at 3 per cent interest and grain at a dollar hundredweight under regular prices.

Private Secretary Shares In Estate

DETROIT (AP)—For 19 years Miss Helen M. Eaton worked as private secretary for Charles A. Bray, Detroit financier. Now she has learned that he left her "about $200,000" of his two-million-dollar estate when he died Sept. 12. The bulk of the estate went to his widow. Said Miss Eaton: "He was the most generous man I ever knew."

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Our problem may not seem serious, but we could enjoy life so much more if it were solved. We are a very ordinary married couple in middle age—fairly nice looking, fairly intelligent, fairly well off, with two children.

Our attitude to other people is open-hearted, friendly and pleasant; of that I am sure. But still we find it extremely difficult to make friends; and I mean friends, not just acquaintances.

We go to church but can't manage to develop anything but a superficial (though pleasant enough) relationship with other members there. It is hard to analyze oneself objectively; but we have tried, and have come to the conclusion that there is nothing in our special make-up that would tend to keep distance between us and others. But what, then, is it?

Is it just bad luck? And do other people have the same experience to a great extent, so far as you know?

skill, perhaps, but also because, having many friends, one is better sustained by a sense of plenty, hence "comfortable." There is no edgy anxiety in one's attitude then. It is the strictly-from-hunger approach to company that causes most people to shy away from the wistfully lonely soul.

In your case, your seemingly friendless estate, at present, probably isn't so much bad luck, as it is a result of making too little effort (if, indeed, any effort) over the years, towards other people.

What to do? Friendships are found in the field of common cause, as a rule. Church attendance won't win friends, unless you go deeply into church work, serve on committees, and get to know people. Also, one doesn't make friends en masse; the process begins with genuine interest in the specific individual. And it should be a happy-hearted, self-reliant but giving interest, in order to attract and hold.

My advice is, relax. Don't strain for friends. Now that you have friendships in mind, give yourself 10 years in which to mind and be found by your own kind. Some authority has said we may count ourselves rich if we have as many as four real friends in a lifetime.

"Mary Hawthorth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Our problem may not seem serious, but we could enjoy life so much more if it were solved. We are a very ordinary married couple in middle age—fairly nice looking, fairly intelligent, fairly well off, with two children.

Our attitude to other people is open-hearted, friendly and pleasant; of that I am sure. But still we find it extremely difficult to make friends; and I mean friends, not just acquaintances.

We go to church but can't manage to develop anything but a superficial (though pleasant enough) relationship with other members there. It is hard to analyze oneself objectively; but we have tried, and have come to the conclusion that there is nothing in our special make-up that would tend to keep distance between us and others. But what, then, is it?

Is it just bad luck? And do other people have the same experience to a great extent, so far as you know?

DEAR C. L.: People who have friends in adequate supply are people who work at making and keeping friends. They are on the job, early and late, politicking pleasantly—find appropriate ways to cultivate a response from persons they "wish to know better," or hope to include in their repertory of "exchange visitors." Thus it is said: "He who would have friends must show himself friendly."

Also it is notably true, of making friends, that "nothing succeeds like success." The larger one's circle of friends, the easier it is to add more; partly due to growing skill, perhaps, but also because, having many friends, one is better sustained by a sense of plenty, hence "comfortable." There is no edgy anxiety in one's attitude then. It is the strictly-from-hunger approach to company that causes most people to shy away from the wistfully lonely soul.

In your case, your seemingly friendless estate, at present, probably isn't so much bad luck, as it is a result of making too little effort (if, indeed, any effort) over the years, towards other people.

What to do? Friendships are found in the field of common cause, as a rule. Church attendance won't win friends, unless you go deeply into church work, serve on committees, and get to know people. Also, one doesn't make friends en masse; the process begins with genuine interest in the specific individual. And it should be a happy-hearted, self-reliant but giving interest, in order to attract and hold.

My advice is, relax. Don't strain for friends. Now that you have friendships in mind, give yourself 10 years in which to mind and be found by your own kind. Some authority has said we may count ourselves rich if we have as many as four real friends in a lifetime.

CAMELS, OF ALL THINGS

CAMELS, WHICH today are known chiefly to American children and many adults from the yearly visit of the circus, or a picture on a cigarette package, once were brought to the United States to be used as pack animals. The only part of that experiment still remaining are the camels seen in mirages and told about by tourist-trade prospectors in the Southwest desert country.

In Australia, though, it is different. The first recorded camel in Australia was imported in 1940. Now these animals, which once helped explore, supply and police the "out-back" country, are becoming a nuisance. They are reported to be destroying so much cattle pasture that they have been ordered shot on sight.

Camels played an important part in early surveying and settlement of the island continent. In long trains, silhouetted against the empty horizon, they packed mail, food and other necessities to interior sheep ranches, returning with loads of wool. A few work and pack animals are still on the job at isolated farms and ranches.

In the United States early experiments with camels were soon abandoned. In 1855, Secretary of War Jefferson Davis, later president of the Confederacy, encouraged the importation of camels and native herdsmen to aid military transport in the arid Southwest.

The following year the first shipment from the Mediterranean was landed at Indianola, Tex., and driven inland to the camel station at Camp Verde. At first the venture looked promising. The camels were used successfully in surveying a wagon route to the Pacific. It was proposed that a thousand more be ordered.

The Civil War halted activities, and drawbacks began to develop. Horses and mules would bolt at the sight and smell of the newcomers. Those put to work in supplying Nevada and Arizona mines proved unsuited. The camels suffered as their spongy foot-pads were cut by sharp stones and cactus thorns.

When Camp Verde fell to the Confederates, many of its camels wandered off. Others were sold to circuses and zoos.

MENACING THEORY

AMERICA has always been noted for its help to the needy. Originally kindly citizens watched out for destitute neighbors and gave them a helping hand. Gradually the community banded together to do mutually what individuals found difficult to do alone.

Local governments took charge of some functions, private philanthropy of others. States stepped in to add to the charitable resources.

But always the emphasis was upon need. Those not in need were to do for themselves.

Now charity steadily is being preempted by the federal government. And it is clear that its efforts are going far beyond charity. In response to group pressures accounting for millions of votes, the aim now is not only to provide for the needy but to perform services for all citizens which the earning individual is capable of doing for himself.

In practice, this means that the national government takes over more and more

These Days

From the Parent-Teacher Association of the Jamaica High School of New York comes a letter addressed to Charles Silver of the Board of Education of New York City discussing the effort of the Board to establish a program for "The Development of Moral and Spiritual Ideals in the Public Schools."

The letter is one of protest against the program lest somehow sectarian religion creep in. The gist of the letter is in this paragraph:

"...No safeguards have been set up to prevent the expression of religious views under the guise of moral or spiritual teaching. I need not remind the members of the Board of Education that there are over 200 religious sects in this country. Nor that each one is entitled, under our Constitution, to practice and teach its own beliefs in its own way. Nor ought we to forget the rights of the nonbelievers and of that numerous body of believers not affiliated with any particular sect."

One might ask this Association whether its members prefer juvenile delinquents who are likely to be young people who have been safeguarded from moral and spiritual teaching of any kind and who have no respect for God, for their parents, for the laws of their country or for the rights and opinions of other human beings. The question arises where in the Constitution is there any such statement as the quoted statement says there is?

The only mention in the Constitution of religion is in the First Amendment and that only forbids the government to establish a church, perhaps providing its revenue out of taxes.

It is impossible to understand the fear of religion, despite the historic fact that those nations thrived best and their people lived most decently when they believed in a power outside themselves that makes for righteousness. We call that power God and when our people accepted God's guidance and His moral law, we were on the up-building phase of our history.

During the present sophisticated times, when it is possible for an association composed of parents and teachers to send a letter containing such a paragraph as I have quoted expressing a fear of religion, we are no longer on the up-building phase of our history. We are involved in such problems as broken homes, juvenile delinquency, excessive divorce, increasing crime, particularly sex crimes.

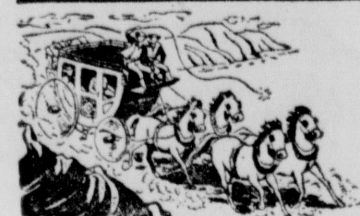

We have become a confused people, not because we have "over 200 religious sects," but because we have forsaken God and have substituted for Him something called human rights which can only be sustained as rights if they emanate from a Power greater than man. Otherwise what man establishes, other men can disestablish as Khrushchev has declared false what was true in Stalin's time—three years ago.

The letter I quote further states: "Teachers are human beings. Their abilities vary, including the one enabling them to keep strong personal views from being expressed tacitly or openly. We know there have been flagrant examples of such religious statements in the classrooms. We can only guess at the frequency of vaguer but equally disturbing expressions that have confused and confounded the minds of our children."

functions and responsibilities until the individual has little to do for himself. The government makes his decisions for him, robbing him of initiative and making the individual the creature of the state, not the self-reliant sort of person who built America.

It's a bad theory and a menacing one. When the time comes that most Americans are reliant upon the government instead of themselves, that is the day for the dictator to emerge. The lessons of history are too clear to doubt it.

CHAPTER 19

FLAT on his back, Oates lay panting, gasping for breath, pain tearing like a clawed beast as he tried to suck in air. It was an old pain, hated yet familiar—the wind driven out of a man, leaving him empty, all but helpless. Then, as it worked back in, he realized that he still gripped the revolver, almost in a death grip, despite an arm which tingled to the shoulder, a hand numb and shocked. And there was no blood.

Dazedly he stared, the light sufficiently good that he could see at that point-blank range, and beholding the spatter of lead across the middle of the gun, understanding came to him.

Running, he'd held on to the revolver, clutching it in front of him, and that had saved his life. He'd been momentarily confused, heading toward instead of away from the sentry, and he had shot. Only he hadn't aimed for the ball to go high or wide—quite the opposite. More than that, the soldier had demonstrated excellent marksmanship, particularly under such conditions.

The bullet had hit the revolver which Oates held, smashing the gun back into his stomach as though he had been a sledge hammer, driving the breath from his body, sending him down. But that rifle lead had glanced off the steel, so that he was still alive, and the tumble had fooled the sentry into believing that he had gotten him, so that, coming up now, he hadn't fired again.

Pain still had its holiday through his middle, and the numbness was in his fingers, making them wooden, but enough feeling was back to make this a mechanical gesture. Hate was a powerful stimulus. Oates twisted the gun and squeezed on the trigger, and he had a moment of panic, wondering if the rifle bullet had runned the gun. That was resolved as he felt it buck in his hand, and the sentry, looming suddenly close, staggered drunkenly and dropped his rifle. He clutched both hands to his own middle, weaved a moment and sprawled in the dust.

That shooting had sounded the alarm, and Oates's fears were answered. Kinney had planned the double-cross, that he should try to escape and die in the attempt.

With the memory of the prison break fresh in mind, Oates was too keen to make a wild dash for freedom. He crawled the first fifty feet, hugging the guardhouse, taking advantage of the shadows, the attendant confusion of those early moments. Several men rushed past so close that he could almost have reached out his hand and touched them.

They had found the sentry now and were exclaiming, and for a few seconds all attention was there. He stood up and ran, then dropped down and crawled again. Two or three times he lay in the deeper shadows while the search raged past, and he knew that escape from the post would be out of the question for a while. They had the gates closed, everyone alerted. Knowing that he was somewhere inside the compound, they would aim to hunt him down.

The pain had left him, save for a soreness where the gun had been slammed so hard against his stomach, and his mind was working with all the guile of the hunted, learned through long experience. There would be just one chance of fooling them, and even that was slim. But it was a chance. The stables.

He reached them unobserved and crawled inside. Already a quick search had been made here, but a more thorough one was certain to follow when other places failed to yield him.

There were horses here, a long row of them in the stalls, and he had to get to his feet, else they'd snort and dance and kick and raise the alarm. He moved boldly, and found what he sought—a pile of hay.

There was perhaps a ton in all. Oates had hoped for more, but there was all there was, and he wormed his way back into and under the pile, knowing how inadequate it was, now short a time would be required for moving it.

Once sheltered, he had half an hour, and it seemed far longer. The heat of the afternoon lingered here in the stable, and under the hay it was smothering and unpleasant, but he dared not stir. Then he heard them coming, saw the faint gleam of the lanterns, knew that they were angry men and vengefully bent on finding him.

If they worked it all over to a new place, he wouldn't stand a chance. Apparently they weren't going to do that, but what they had in mind was nearly as bad. Half a dozen soldiers were at work all at once and together, on every side, a couple on top of the pile, jabbing deep with pitchforks. They figured to find him if he was there.

Oates lay tense, and he felt the weight overhead, more smothering than before. It was removed, and so far the probing things had missed. He set his teeth and steeled himself, and none too soon. One time lanced into his side and was jerked out again. He managed to restrain a yell.

Good Breakfast Helps Keep Students Alert

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WITH the kids back in school, a meal of the day, it usually again, maybe you should pay a little more attention to their breakfasts. Furthermore, since this is National Better Breakfast Month, I can't think of a better time to discuss the subject.

Adequate Breakfast

It's important for everyone to have an adequate breakfast to start the day right. But it is especially important for schoolchildren. A hungry child can't learn as well as he should. He is at a definite disadvantage in his relationship with other youngsters.

Better Attitudes

The studies demonstrated that boys aged 12 to 14 had better attitudes and better grades following the consumption of an adequate breakfast. Also, students who had a good breakfast turned out more work, did not tire as easily and were quicker in their reactions than youngsters who went to school without breakfast.

While many doctors believe that breakfast is the most important meal of the day, it usually again, maybe you should pay a little more attention to their breakfasts. Furthermore, since this is National Better Breakfast Month, I can't think of a better time to discuss the subject.

The Iowa studies demonstrated that the content of the breakfast is relatively unimportant as long as it contains adequate proteins and calories.

Generally, I advise a basic breakfast providing about one-fourth of the total daily calorie and protein requirements. A heavy morning meal, one representing about 40 per cent or so of the day's total food intake, doesn't increase efficiency during the late morning hours.

Basic Breakfast

A good basic breakfast should include fruit, milk, cereal including oatmeal, whole wheat or enriched bread and butter or fortified margarine. You can add an egg three to five times a week.

A breakfast such as this doesn't take much preparation. So, really, you don't have any excuse, do you?

His Goal: Eden For Elderly

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Millions of new homes for young married couples have gone up in America's vast postwar building boom.

But Gilbert P. Edwards, a 32-year-old Brooklyn-born engineer, is pioneering in a new field. He is providing housing designed to satisfy the different wants of retired couples.

His latest venture is a $16 million Eden for the elderly in Florida, a project he feels will help set a new pattern in living for the growing army of U. S. senior citizens.

Something of a boy genius, Edwards is already a veteran builder. At 19 he was graduated from Brown University. As an ensign still below voting age he was resident officer in charge of supervising construction at the multi-million dollar Alameda Naval Air Station in California.

After leaving the Navy, he went to Florida with his $500 discharge pay and immediately began to parlay it into a fortune by specializing in building developments catering to the older generation.

"I feel now I know exactly what retired people want," he said. "They want security, first of all, but a security that is physical as well as financial."

"They don't hanker for the wide open spaces, nor do they like the skyscraper-crowded big cities. They prefer a community which is small and friendly, one in which they can associate people in their own age brackets and with the same interests."

His new project, is a 34-acre site surrounded, except for a five-foot-high wall to give it privacy.

The walled-in city will have its own shopping center, an 11-story hotel, five cooperatively owned apartment buildings, an 18-hole pitch and putt golf course, tennis courts, gardens, boat anchorage space and a surf club, but no night club.

He plans no paradise for paupers. The apartments will cost from $12,000 for one with a single bedroom to $50,000 for a five-room penthouse, with monthly maintenance fees ranging from less than $60 up to $120.

"Older people no longer just look for a place to die when they retire," he said. "They look for a place where they can go on living. They are learning what it takes to keep them happy—and I don't think any builder will go broke if he goes to the trouble of finding out what they really want, and gives it to them."

There are some 50,000 passenger coaches on British railways, with a seating capacity of more than three million passengers.

Try, Stop Me

Bennett Cerf's

A Texas farmer left his team of horses in front of a village store just as two medium-size Texas mosquitoes buzzed upon the scene. When the farmer returned ten minutes later, the skeeters had eaten the horses and were pitching horseshoes to see which would get the farmer.

Then there's the tale of another Texas farmer who was pinched for speeding on a highway in his harvesting machine during a dust storm. "Don't stop me!" begged the farmer, indicating a solid cloud of dust behind him. "I planted that alfalfa, and by golly, I mean to harvest it if I have to follow it clean into the Gulf of Mexico!"

A kid out in Beverly Hills showed his school report card: Four F's and one D. Papa, of course,

In Australia, though, it is different. The first recorded camel in Australia was imported in 1940. Now these animals, which once helped explore, supply and police the "out-back" country, are becoming a nuisance. They are reported to be destroying so much cattle pasture that they have been ordered shot on sight.

Camels played an important part in early surveying and settlement of the island continent. In long trains, silhouetted against the empty horizon, they packed mail, food and other necessities to interior sheep ranches, returning with loads of wool. A few work and pack animals are still on the job at isolated farms and ranches.

In the United States early experiments with camels were soon abandoned. In 1855, Secretary of War Jefferson Davis, later president of the Confederacy, encouraged the importation of camels and native herdsmen to aid military transport in the arid Southwest.

The following year the first shipment from the Mediterranean was landed at Indianola, Tex., and driven inland to the camel station at Camp Verde. At first the venture looked promising. The camels were used successfully in surveying a wagon route to the Pacific. It was proposed that a thousand more be ordered.

The Civil War halted activities, and drawbacks began to develop. Horses and mules would bolt at the sight and smell of the newcomers. Those put to work in supplying Nevada and Arizona mines proved unsuited. The camels suffered as their spongy foot-pads were cut by sharp stones and cactus thorns.

When Camp Verde fell to the Confederates, many of its camels wandered off. Others were sold to circuses and zoos.

MENACING THEORY
AMERICA has always been noted for its help to the needy. Originally kindly citizens watched out for destitute neighbors and gave them a helping hand. Gradually the community banded together to do mutually what individuals found difficult to do alone.

Local governments took charge of some functions, private philanthropy of others. States stepped in to add to the charitable resources.

But always the emphasis was upon need. Those not in need were to do for themselves.

Now charity steadily is being preempted by the federal government. And it is clear that its efforts are going far beyond charity. In response to group pressures accounting for millions of votes, the aim now is not only to provide for the needy but to perform services for all citizens which the earning individual is capable of doing for himself.

In practice, this means that the national government takes over more and more

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days
From the Parent-Teacher Association of the Jamaica High School of New York comes a letter addressed to Charles Silver of the Board of Education of New York City discussing the effort of the Board to establish a program for "The Development of Moral and Spiritual Ideals in the Public Schools."

The letter is one of protest against the program lest somehow sectarian religion creep in. The gist of the letter is in this paragraph:

"No safeguards have been set up to prevent the expression of religious views under the guise of moral or spiritual teaching. I need not remind the members of the Board of Education that there are over 200 religious sects in this country. Nor that each one is entitled, under our Constitution, to practice and teach its own beliefs in its own way. Nor ought we to forget the rights of the nonbelievers and of that numerous body of believers not affiliated with any particular sect."

One might ask this Association whether its members prefer juvenile delinquents who are likely to be young people who have been safeguarded from moral and spiritual teaching of any kind and who have no respect for God, for their parents, for the laws of their country or for the rights and opinions of other human beings. The question arises where in the Constitution is there any such statement as the quoted statement says there is?

The only mention in the Constitution of religion is in the First Amendment and that only forbids the government to establish a church, perhaps providing its revenue out of taxes.

It is impossible to understand the fear of religion, despite the historic fact that those nations thrived best and their people lived most decently when they believed in a power outside themselves that makes for righteousness. We call that power God and when our people accepted God's guidance and His moral law, we were on the up-building phase of our history.

During the present sophisticated times, when it is possible for an association composed of parents and teachers to send a letter containing such a paragraph as I have quoted expressing a fear of religion, we are no longer on the up-building phase of our history. We are involved in such problems as broken homes, juvenile delinquency, excessive divorce, increasing crime, particularly sex crimes.

We have become a confused people, not because we have "over 200 religious sects," but because we have forsaken God and have substituted for Him something called human rights which can only be sustained as rights if they emanate from a Power greater than man. Otherwise what man establishes, other men can disestablish as Khrushchev has declared false what was true in Stalin's time—three years ago.

The letter I quote further states: "Teachers are human beings. Their abilities vary, including the one enabling them to keep strong personal views from being expressed tacitly or openly. We know there have been flagrant examples of such religious statements in the classrooms. We can only guess at the frequency of vaguer but equally disturbing expressions that have confused and confounded the minds of our children."

functions and responsibilities until the individual has little to do for himself. The government makes his decisions for him, robbing him of initiative and making the individual the creature of the state, not the self-reliant sort of person who built America.

It's a bad theory and a menacing one. When the time comes that most Americans are reliant upon the government instead of themselves, that is the day for the dictator to emerge. The lessons of history are too clear to doubt it.

CHAPTER 19
FLAT on his back, Oates lay panting, gasping for breath, pain tearing like a clawed beast as he tried to suck in air. It was an old pain, hated yet familiar—the wind driven out of a man, leaving him empty, all but helpless. Then, as it worked back in, he realized that he still gripped the revolver, almost in a death grip, despite an arm which tingled to the shoulder, a hand numb and shocked. And there was no blood.
Dazedly he stared, the light sufficiently good that he could see at that point-blank range, and beholding the spatter of lead across the middle of the gun, understanding came to him.
Running, he'd held on to the revolver, clutching it in front of him, and that had saved his life. He'd been momentarily confused, heading toward instead of away from the sentry, and he had shot. Only he hadn't aimed for the ball to go high or wide—quite the opposite. More than that, the soldier had demonstrated excellent marksmanship, particularly under such conditions.
The bullet had hit the revolver which Oates held, smashing the gun back into his stomach as though it had indeed been a sledge hammer, driving the breath from his body, sending him down. But that rifle lead had glanced off the steel, so that he was still alive, and the tumble had fooled the sentry into believing that he had gotten him, so that, coming up now, he hadn't fired again.
Pain still had its hold over him, and the numbness was in his fingers, making them wooden, but enough feeling was back to make this a mechanical gesture. Hate was a powerful stimulus. Oates twisted the gun and squeezed on the trigger, and he had a moment of panic, wondering if the rifle bullet had ruined the gun. That was resolved as he felt it buck in his hand, and the sentry, looming suddenly close, staggered drunkenly and dropped his rifle. He clutched both hands to his own middle, weaved a moment and sprawled in the dust.
That shooting had sounded the alarm, and Oates's fears were answered. Kinney had planned the double-cross, that he should try to escape and die in the attempt.
With the memory of the prison break fresh in mind, Oates was too canny to make a wild dash for freedom. He crawled the first fifty feet, hugging the guardhouse, taking advantage of the shadows, the attendant confusion of those early moments. Several men rushed past so close that he felt them.
Once sheltered, he had half an hour, and it seemed far longer. The heat of the afternoon lingered here in the stable, and under the hay it was smothering and unpleasant, but he dared not stir. Then he heard them coming, saw the faint gleam of the lanterns, knew that they were angry men and vengefully bent on finding him.
If they worked it all over to a new place, he wouldn't stand a chance. Apparently they weren't going to do that, but what they had in mind was nearly as bad. Half a dozen soldiers were at work all at once and together, on every side, a couple on top of the pile, jabbing deep with pitchforks. They figured to find him if he was there.
Oates lay tense, and he felt the weight overhead, more smothering than before. It was removed, and so far the probing times had missed. He set his teeth and waited, and he waited, and he waited. One time he glanced into his side, and he was jerked out again. He managed to restrain a yell.

DIET AND HEALTH
Good Breakfast Helps Keep Students Alert
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WITH the kids back in school again, maybe you should pay a little more attention to their breakfasts. Furthermore, since this is National Better Breakfast Month, I can't think of a better time to discuss the subject.
Adequate Breakfast
It's important for everyone to have an adequate breakfast to start the day right. But it is especially important for schoolchildren. A hungry child can't learn as well as he should. He is at a definite disadvantage in his relationship with other youngsters.
Scientific tests conducted by the University of Iowa have shown that good breakfast habits are essential for maximum efficiency, both physical and mental, during the late morning hours.
Better Attitudes
The studies demonstrated that boys aged 12 to 14 had better attitudes and better grades following the consumption of an adequate breakfast. Also, students who had a good breakfast turned out more work, did not tire as easily and were quicker in their reactions than youngsters who went to school without breakfast.
While many doctors believe that breakfast is the most important meal of the day, it usually again, maybe you should pay a little more attention to their breakfasts. Furthermore, since this is National Better Breakfast Month, I can't think of a better time to discuss the subject.
The Iowa studies demonstrated that the content of the breakfast is relatively unimportant as long as it contains adequate proteins and calories.
Generally, I advise a basic breakfast providing about one-fourth of the total daily caloric and protein requirements. A heavy morning meal, one representing about 40 per cent or so of the day's total food intake, doesn't increase efficiency during the late morning hours.
Basic Breakfast
A good basic breakfast should include fruit, milk, cereal including oatmeal, whole wheat or enriched bread and butter or fortified margarine. You can add an egg three to five times a week.
A breakfast such as this doesn't take much preparation. So, really, you don't have any excuse, do you?

His Goal: Eden For Elderly
By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — Millions of new homes for young married couples have gone up in America's vast postwar building boom.
But Gilbert P. Edwards, a 32-year-old Brooklyn-born engineer, is pioneering in a new field. He is providing housing designed to satisfy the different wants of retired couples.
His latest venture is a $16 million Eden for the elderly in Florida, a project he feels will help set a new pattern in living for the growing army of U. S. senior citizens.
Something of a boy genius, Edwards is already a veteran builder. At 19 he was graduated from Brown University. As an ensign still below voting age he was resident officer in charge of supervising construction at the multi-million dollar Alameda Naval Air Station in California.
After leaving the Navy, he went to Florida with his $500 discharge pay and immediately began to parlay it into a fortune by specializing in building developments catering to the older generation.
"I feel now I know exactly what retired people want," he said. "They want security, first of all, but a security that is physical as well as financial."
"They don't hanker for the wide open spaces, nor do they like the skyscraper-crowded big cities. They prefer a community which is small and friendly, one in which they can associate people in their own age brackets and with the same interests."
His new project, is a 34-acre site surrounded, except for a 450-foot ocean front, by a five-foot-high wall to give it privacy. The walled-in city will have its own shopping center, an 11-story hotel, five cooperatively owned apartment buildings, an 18-hole pitch and putt golf course, tennis courts, gardens, boat anchorage space and a surf club, but no night club.
He plans no paradise for paupers. The apartments will cost from $12,000 for one with a single bedroom to $50,000 for a five-room penthouse, with monthly maintenance fees ranging from less than $60 up to $120.
"Older people no longer just look for a place to die when they retire," he said. "They look for a place where they can go on living. They are learning what it takes to keep them happy—and I don't think any builder will go broke if he goes to the trouble of finding out what they really want, and gives it to them."

Try, Stop Me
A Texas farmer left his team of horses in front of a village store just as two medium-size Texas mosquitoes buzzed upon the scene. When the farmer returned ten minutes later, the skeeters had eaten the horses and were pitching horseshoes to see which would get the farmer.
Then there's the tale of another Texas farmer who was pinched for speeding on a highway in his harvesting machine during a dust storm. "Don't stop me!" begged the farmer, indicating a solid cloud of dust behind him. "I planted that alfalfa, and by golly, I mean to harvest it if I have to follow it clean into the Gulf of Mexico!"
A kid out in Beverly Hills showed his school report card: Four F's and one D. Papa, of course, raised heck, but the kid has an explanation. "I guess I just spent too much time on that fifth subject."

Kuckherman-Thornton Wed In Presbyterian Church

Miss Julia Ann Kuckherman and Mr. Larry Lawrence Thornton were married in a double ring ceremony in the West minister Presbyterian Church of Dayton, with the Rev. W. James Westhafer officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Kuckherman of 519 Hess Ave. in Dayton, and Mr. Thornton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Thornton of Circleville.

The church was decorated with altar vases of white mums and gadiol. Seven branched candelabra were also used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over rayon satin. The lace bodice featured a high scooped neckline of lace scallops edged with iridescent sequins, and short sleeves. The pointed waistline emanated to a bouffant skirt of four tiers alternating lace and tulle. Her two-tiered fingertip veil of imported French illusion was caught in a crown of Chantilly lace highlighted and edged with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with staphanotis and satin streamers tied in lovers' knots.

The bride chose as her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. John Massey of Eglin Air Base, Fla., and as bridesmaids the groom's sister Miss Beverly Thornton of Cleveland, and her roommate, Miss Barbara Rice of Chillicothe. Her junior bridesmaid was her cousin, Miss Judith Elaine Kuckherman, Rockledge, Fla.

They wore identical ballerina-length dresses of light blue taffeta. The princess lines of their dresses gave way to side and back fullness in the skirt, ending in a point and a bow with streamers. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and short sleeves. They wore beaded crowns with heart motifs set off by iridescent sequins covered with scalloped circular veils. Each carried baskets of red sweetheart roses and pink mignonne with trails of staphanotis and ribbon.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was his cousin, Clyde Cook of Circleville. Ushers were fraternity brothers, Jack Keene of Lancaster, Newell Stevenson of Circleville and also John Massey of Eglin Air Base, brother-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kuckherman wore a dusty rose lace dress with matching accessories and corsages. The groom's mother, Mrs. Thornton wore a wedgewood blue taffeta dress with lace inserts and matching accessories and flowers. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Kuckherman, New Bremen, O., wore a brown dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was a lavender glamelia.

Preceding the ceremony a program of music was presented by Elmer J. Knisley at the organ and by George Yingling, soloist. The latter sang "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and the ancient hymn of the church, "If Thou but Suffer God to Guide Thee."

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social rooms. Besides Dayton friends, guests and relatives attended from Rockledge and Eglin Air Base, Fla., Memphis, Tenn., Columbus, Circleville, Chillicothe, Mt. Sterling, Lancaster, New Bremen, Lima, St. Mary's, Piqua, Cleveland and Xenia.

Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding trip to New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. They are residing in Athens.

The bride, a graduate of Wilbur Wright high school, Dayton, and attended Grove City College, Grove City, Penn. and is now a senior at Ohio University, where she is majoring in education.

Mr. Thornton, a graduate of Circleville high school, is also a senior at Ohio University and next year expects to enter Princeton

Kuckherman-Thornton Wed In Presbyterian Church

Miss Julia Ann Kuckherman and Mr. Larry Lawrence Thornton were married in a double ring ceremony in the West minister Presbyterian Church of Dayton, with the Rev. W. James Westhafer officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Kuckherman of 519 Hess Ave. in Dayton, and Mr. Thornton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Thornton of Circleville.

The church was decorated with altar vases of white mums and gadiol. Seven branched candelabra were also used.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over rayon satin. The lace bodice featured a high scooped neckline of lace scalloped edged with iridescent sequins, and short sleeves. The pointed waistline emanated from a bouffant skirt of four tiers alternating lace and tulle. Her two-tiered fingertip veil of imported French illusion was caught in a crown of Chantilly lace highlighted and edged with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with stephanotis and satin streamers tied in lovers' knots.

The bride chose as her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. John Massey of Eglon Air Base, Fla., and as bridesmaids the groom's sister Miss Beverly Thornton of Cleveland, and her roommate, Miss Barbara Rice of Chillicothe. Her junior bridesmaid was her cousin, Miss Judith Elaine Kuckherman, Rockledge, Fla.

They wore identical ballerina-length dresses of light blue taffeta. The princess lines of their dresses gave way to side and back fullness in the skirt, ending in a point and a bow with streamers. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline and short sleeves. They wore beaded crowns with heart motifs set off by iridescent sequins covered with scalloped circular veils. Each carried baskets of red sweetheart roses and pink mignonne with trails of stephanotis and ribbon.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was his cousin, Clyde Cook of Circleville. Ushers were fraternity brothers, Jack Keene of Lancaster, Newell Stevenson of Circleville and also John Massey of Eglon Air Base, brother-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kuckherman wore a dusty rose lace dress with matching accessories and corsages. The groom's mother, Mrs. Thornton wore a wedgewood blue taffeta dress with lace inserts and matching accessories and flowers. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Kuckherman, New Bremen, O., wore a brown dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was a lavender glamelia.

Preceding the ceremony a program of music was presented by Elmer J. Knisley at the organ and by George Yingling, soloist. The latter sang "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and the ancient hymn of the church, "If Thou but Suffer God to Guide Thee."

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social rooms. Besides Dayton friends, guests and relatives attended from Rockledge and Eglon Air Base, Fla., Memphis, Tenn., Columbus, Circleville, Chillicothe, Mt. Sterling, Lancaster, New Bremen, Lima, St. Mary's, Piqua, Cleveland and Xenia.

Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding trip to New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. They are residing in Athens.

The bride, a graduate of Wilbur Wright high school, Dayton, and attended Grove City College, Grove City, Penn., and is now a senior at Ohio University, where she is majoring in education.

Mr. Thornton, a graduate of Circleville high school, is also a senior at Ohio University and next year expects to enter Princeton

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Communist leaders have now publicly acknowledged errors in a document which is sickening testimony to the wasted lives of thousands who were, or still are, party members giving blind obedience to the Kremlin leadership in the belief it knew what it was doing.

The list of errors is in a resolution drafted by the party's national committee for submission to the party's convention next February. Many of these errors, in one form or another, were admitted publicly earlier this year in various party publications.

While the leadership of the American Communist party claims it is not a Russian agent, it is a fact these errors were admitted only after Nikita Khrushchev, Russian Communist party boss, last February confessed mistakes in Russia and suggested other Communist parties become self-critical.

The self-criticism was not simply for breast-beating. Khrushchev suggested it is part of a change in tactics but not in goals. He said Communist parties will still take over where they can—peacefully, if that's possible, by working with other groups until they gain power; violently if necessary.

The U.S. Communist party, according to the committee document, will now try to work with other groups more than in the past. Thus the admission of errors is a part of a general face-lifting job.

But the U.S. Communist party, which for more than a quarter of a century has held itself up as the one organization fit to run the country, makes itself ludicrous by its admissions of stupidity, blindness and utter lack of an elementary understanding of the forces in American life.

Here are some of the mistakes the leaders concede they made:

They expected the United States to start World War III; they reduced their own membership too much deliberately and then lost additional thousands needlessly by their tactics and bad judgment; they predicted, planned for, major depressions in this country in 1945, 1949 and 1954; they misunderstood and underestimated this country's economic strength; they misunderstood the American labor movement; they misunderstood American Negroes by thinking their struggle for equality was some kind of subconscious anticapitalism.

In short, the leaders concede that under their guidance the party has become "isolated" from the mainstream of American life. The leaders say they blindly accepted mid-19th century Marxism as their bible — although they don't use that word — in 20th century America without doing independent thinking of their own.

If it were not that so many lives were wrecked by association with the American Communist party, one admission would be comical: the U.S. party leaders say they were "entirely unprepared" for Khrushchev's denunciations of Stalin's misdeeds and the perversion of Russian communism under him.

But the party leaders give no hint in their document that they think anyone who could be as wrong as they have been about fundamental American living should step aside in favor of some new kind of party leadership.

Instead, the document gives the impression that these men, who never exhibited any doubts about their rightness when they were wrong, seem perfectly confident they can now be right and trusted — by the party members, that is.

John Adams was the first President of the United States to use Washington, D. C., as the capital.

State AFL And CIO Groups Continuing With Mergers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some setbacks mergers of state AFL and CIO organizations are coming along steadily.

But the national AFL-CIO eventually may have to step in to force consolidations in some of the reluctant, more populous states.

Once-rival AFL and CIO organizations have already amalgamated in 14 states. Mergers in nine to a dozen more states are in prospect before the first of the year.

Where there are delays, jockeying among individual labor leaders for the top jobs appears to be the main deterrent. With all the fuss over integration in the South the racial problem seems to be having little or no effect on the mergers.

That's the merger situation as shown in a nationwide survey conducted by The Associated Press.

Here at national AFL-CIO headquarters a spokesman said that in all states organized labor forces are pulling together politically to a greater degree than ever before. The AFL-CIO has endorsed the Democratic ticket of Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

States where former AFL and CIO statewide organizations have already merged are: Arkansas, Missouri, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arizona, Montana, Vermont, Colorado, Virginia, Wyoming, Oregon, Iowa, South Dakota, and Utah.

Generally these are the smaller industrial states, mostly in the South and West, with relatively small numbers of AFL-CIO union members. Absent from the list of completed mergers are such heavily unionized states as New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and California.

States in which mergers are in prospect in the next few months include Alabama, Delaware, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, Florida, Maine, South Carolina and Texas. Here again are none of the largest industrialized states.

It was several months after the national AFL-CIO merger last December that efforts began to get state mergers rolling. So the state merger drive is only about six months old.

The national AFL-CIO constitution allows two years, until early December 1957, for completion of the state group marriages. After that, the AFL-CIO plans to lift charters and compel remaining states to blend into single organizations.

Mergers have been voted down in two states, Mississippi and North Carolina. But in Mississippi locals which voted last June against merger now say publicly they approve it.

What blocked the Mississippi merger and probably also North Carolina's was a national jurisdictional squabble among former AFL building trades union and former CIO industrial or manufacturing plant unions. This was a revival of an old AFL-CIO feud over which type union's members should do construction work around factories.

The building trades ordered all their unions in the states to block state mergers until this fight was settled. Then, after AFL-CIO President George Meany persuaded otherwise, the building trades revoked the order.

This has led to confusion in many states and has temporarily delayed mergers in such states as Ohio, Oklahoma, Michigan, Texas and West Virginia. This is being straightened out in most places.

But stronger measures, including headquarters action, may be needed in Michigan, where the jurisdictional question is just one of many fiery issues, between rivals Walter Reuther of the auto workers and James R. Hoffa of the teamsters.

In all states joint merger committees are going through the motions of working out details and new joint constitutions. The national AFL-CIO has a set of standards on general things that must go into all the state merger constitutions.

Delays in most states are occurring because top men on both sides are conducting a waiting game hoping to stall their rivals into taking lesser jobs in the merged organizations.

In Indiana, where merger seems early next year, the two union organizations have agreed to combine their separate lobbying headquarters to work together during the 1957 Indiana legislative session, starting in January.

Ohio Bullfighter Ousted By Spain, Eyes Mexico Stint

NEW YORK (AP) — An American bullfighter who lost a decision to Spanish officialdom has arrived back in the United States with hopes of continuing his career in Mexico.

Fred McLeod, 21, of Warren, Ohio, said he made uncomplimentary remarks about Generalissimo Franco and the Spanish court system and had been given his choice of going to jail, paying a fine or leaving Spain.

Choosing the third course, he first went to France for a vacation, and then headed home.

He told newsmen he "innocently" became involved in a bar-room dispute and was summoned to court. He said he denounced Franco and the court system when he was not allowed to obtain a lawyer.

Contractors Face Grand Jury Writ

WOOSTER (AP) — Contractors Walter F. Sheller, 68, of Navarre, and Earl L. Baughman, 47, of Shrods-ville faced arraignment today on charges of conspiring to defraud the village of Dalton.

Arrested on secret grand jury indictment Sunday, they are accused of conspiring with Richard B. Harrison of Cincinnati in a fraud which cost the village an estimated $62,000 in a water-sewage plant project. Harrison jumped a bond of $5,000 in Los Angeles in June.

Men Disqualified From Juror Duty

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "Do you agree in the law that will convict this man?" the prosecuting attorneys asked a prospective juror in a liquor violation case.

"My religion prevents me from punishing a man for a crime," the man answered.

The next man asked was more direct in his reply.

"I just don't believe in the law," he said.

Both men were excused and the jury ended up with all women.

City's Legal Ad Setup Under Fire

CANTON (AP) — Over the protest of Mayor Carl Wise, city council Monday night approved publication of city legal advertising in the weekly Canton Economist as well as in the daily Repository.

The mayor maintained that it was "simply wasting money" to spend what he estimated would be $4,000 to $6,000 a year for the advertising in the Economist. Morton Frank, publisher of the weekly, argued that the "public and the taxpayers are entitled to know in as full limits as possible exactly what is going on."

"He's a potential killer," Williams said, "and we've got to change him. More police enforcement and even higher and higher numbers of license suspensions will never really win this battle for us."

"We've got to catch people in their minds and in their driving habits before they ever get to the point that the police have to flag them down."

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Communist leaders have now publicly acknowledged errors in a document which is sickening testimony to the wasted lives of thousands who were, or still are, party members giving blind obedience to the Kremlin leadership in the belief it knew what it was doing.

The list of errors is in a resolution drafted by the party's national committee for submission to the party's convention next February. Many of these errors, in one form or another, were admitted publicly earlier this year in various party publications.

While the leadership of the American Communist party claims it is not a Russian agent, it is a fact these errors were admitted only after Nikita Khrushchev, Russian Communist party boss, last February confessed mistakes in Russia and suggested other Communist parties become self-critical.

The self-criticism was not simply for breast-beating. Khrushchev suggested it is part of a change in tactics but not in goals. He said Communist parties will still take over where they can—peacefully, if that's possible, by working with other groups until they gain power; violently if necessary.

The U.S. Communist party, according to the committee document, will now try to work with other groups more than in the past. Thus the admission of errors is a part of a general face-lifting job.

But the U.S. Communist party, which for more than a quarter of a century has held itself up as the one organization fit to run the country, makes itself ludicrous by its admissions of stupidity, blindness and utter lack of an elementary understanding of the forces in American life.

Here are some of the mistakes the leaders concede they made:

They expected the United States to start World War III; they reduced their own membership too much deliberately and then lost additional thousands needlessly by their tactics and bad judgment; they predicted, planned for, major depressions in this country in 1945, 1949 and 1954; they misunderstood and underestimated this country's economic strength; they misunderstood the American labor movement; they misunderstood American Negroes by thinking their struggle for equality was some kind of subconscious anticapitalism.

In short, the leaders concede that under their guidance the party has become "isolated" from the mainstream of American life.

The leaders say they blindly accepted mid-19th century Marxism as their bible — although they don't use that word—in 20th century America without doing independent thinking of their own.

If it were not that so many lives were wrecked by association with the American Communist party, one admission would be comical: the U.S. party leaders say they were "entirely unprepared" for Khrushchev's denunciations of Stalin's misdeeds and the perversion of Russian communism under him.

But the party leaders give no hint in their document that they think anyone who could be as wrong as they have been about fundamental American living should step aside in favor of some new kind of party leadership.

Instead, the document gives the impression that these men, who never exhibited any doubts about their rightness when they were wrong, seem perfectly confident they can now be right and trusted — by the party members, that is.

State AFL And CIO Groups Continuing With Mergers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some setbacks mergers of state AFL and CIO organizations are coming along steadily.

But the national AFL-CIO eventually may have to step in to force consolidations in some of the reluctant, more populous states.

Once-rival AFL and CIO organizations have already amalgamated in 14 states. Mergers in nine to a dozen more states are in prospect before the first of the year.

Where there are delays, jockeying among individual labor leaders for the top jobs appears to be the main deterrent. With all the fuss over integration in the South the racial problem seems to be having little or no effect on the mergers.

That's the merger situation as shown in a nationwide survey conducted by The Associated Press.

Here at national AFL-CIO headquarters a spokesman said that in all states organized labor forces are pulling together politically to a greater degree than ever before. The AFL-CIO has endorsed the Democratic ticket of Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver.

States where former AFL and CIO statewide organizations have already merged are: Arkansas, Missouri, Louisiana, Tennessee, Arizona, Montana, Vermont, Colorado, Virginia, Wyoming, Oregon, Iowa, South Dakota, and Utah.

Generally these are the smaller industrial states, mostly in the South and West, with relatively small numbers of AFL-CIO union members. Absent from the list of completed mergers are such heavily unionized states as New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and California.

States in which mergers are in prospect in the next few months include Alabama, Delaware, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, Florida, Maine, South Carolina and Texas. Here again are none of the largest industrialized states.

It was several months after the national AFL-CIO merger last December that efforts began to get state mergers rolling. So the state merger drive is only about six months old.

The national AFL-CIO constitution allows two years, until early December 1957, for completion of the state group marriages. After that, the AFL-CIO plans to lift charters and compel remaining states to blend into single organizations.

Mergers have been voted down in two states, Mississippi and North Carolina. But in Mississippi locals which voted last June against merger now say publicly they approve it.

What blocked the Mississippi merger and probably also North Carolina's was a national jurisdictional squabble among former AFL building trades union and former CIO industrial or manufacturing plant unions. This was a revival of an old AFL-CIO feud over which type union's members should do construction work around factories.

The building trades ordered all their unions in the states to block state mergers until this fight was settled. Then, after AFL - CIO President George Meany persuaded otherwise, the building trades revoked the order.

This has led to confusion in many states and has temporarily delayed mergers in such states as Ohio, Oklahoma, Michigan, Texas and West Virginia. This is being straightened out in most places.

But stronger measures, including headquarters action, may be needed in Michigan, where the jurisdictional question is just one of many fiery issues, between rivals Walter Reuther of the auto workers and James R. Hoffa of the teamsters.

In all states joint merger committees are going through the motions of working out details and new joint constitutions. The national AFL-CIO has a set of standards on general things that must go into all the state merger constitutions.

Delays in most states are occurring because top men on both sides are conducting a waiting game hoping to stall their rivals into taking lesser jobs in the merged organizations.

In Indiana, where merger seems early next year, the two union organizations have agreed to combine their separate lobbying headquarters to work together during the 1957 Indiana legislative session, starting in January.

Ohio Bullfighter Ousted By Spain, Eyes Mexico Stint

NEW YORK (AP) — An American bullfighter who lost a decision to Spanish officialdom has arrived back in the United States with hopes of continuing his career in Mexico.

Fred McLeod, 21, of Warren, Ohio, said he made uncomplimentary remarks about Generalissimo Franco and the Spanish court system and had been given his choice of going to jail, paying a fine or leaving Spain.

Choosing the third course, he first went to France for a vacation, and then headed home.

He told newsmen he "innocently" became involved in a bar-room dispute and was summoned to court. He said he denounced Franco and the court system when he was not allowed to obtain a lawyer.

Contractors Face Grand Jury Writ

WOOSTER (AP) — Contractors Walter F. Shetler, 68, of Navarre, and Earl L. Baughman, 47, of Shrods-ville faced arraignment today on charges of conspiring to defraud the village of Dalton.

Arrested on secret grand jury indictment Sunday, they are accused of conspiring with Richard B. Harrison of Cincinnati in a fraud which cost the village an estimated $62,000 in a water-sewage plant project. Harrison jumped a bond of $5,000 in Los Angeles in June.

Men Disqualified From Juror Duty

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "Do you agree in the law that will convict this man?" the prosecuting attorney asked a prospective juror in a liquor violation case.

"My religion prevents me from punishing a man for a crime," the man answered.

The next man asked was more direct in his reply.

"I just don't believe in the law," he said.

Both men were excused and the jury ended up with all women.

City's Legal Ad Setup Under Fire

CANTON (AP) — Over the protest of Mayor Carl Wise, city council Monday night approved publication of city legal advertising in the weekly Canton Economist as well as in the daily Repository.

The mayor maintained that it was "simply wasting money" to spend what he estimated would be $4,000 to $6,000 a year for the advertising in the Economist. Morton Frank, publisher of the weekly, argued that the "public and the taxpayers are entitled to know in as full limits as possible exactly what is going on."

"He's a potential killer," Williams said, "and we've got to change him. More police enforcement and even higher and higher numbers of license suspensions will never really win this battle for us."

"We've got to catch people in their minds and in their driving habits before they ever get to the point that the police have to flag them down."

Last Chance Faces Redlegs In Game Today

Milwaukee, Cincinnati Set For Duel; Ohioans Must Win This One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati's Redlegs, staying alive with a six-game winning streak in the National League race, got one last chance to keep their foot in the pennant door today. All they had to do was beat Milwaukee.

It was no breather either for the Braves, who slipped back into first place by three percentage points when Pittsburgh jolted Brooklyn back to second 6-5 Monday night.

In fact, none of the contenders can take another loss and look healthy. But while a victory won't guarantee anything for the Redlegs, they'll be dead without it. After today, the Redlegs have only two games (at Chicago). They are two games behind the Braves and Dodgers in the lost column.

The Brooklyn-Pittsburgh game, the last road game for the Dodgers, who hustle back to Ebbets Field for the opener of a two-game set with Philadelphia tonight, was the only contest scheduled in the NL Monday.

In the American, Baltimore whacked New York's pennant-winning hammer Detroit 14-11 on a two-game schedule.

Brooklyn held a .001 edge in the pennant chase for while Monday night after mopping up an 8-3 victory that had been placed on the shelf by curfew Sunday with the Brooks at bat in the ninth inning. A one-two-three job by right-hander Clem Labine made it an official game and nailed Don Newcombe's 26th victory prior to the regularly scheduled game Monday night, but Clem couldn't make it as a starter in the afterpiece.

The Dodgers gave him a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Ed Friend, but the pesky Pirates bounced back with three in the bottom half of the frame.

Frank Thomas did the big damage for the Bucs, driving in three runs with his 24th homer and three singles—one of which drove home the clincher in the eighth after Gil Hodges had poked his 31st home run in Brooklyn's eighth with a man on to tie it 5-5.

It was Hodges' third home run in two days. He swatted two in only victory Brooklyn grabbed in the four-game series.

Reliever Roger Craig was the Brooklyn loser while Friend stuck it out for his 17th victory.

The Bucs, who knocked Brooklyn out of the 1954 pennant, have a three-game set at Ebbets Field in the season's windup this week-end.

Bill Skowron hit two home runs for a 3-1 Yankee lead, but 18-game winner Johnny Kucks couldn't hold it. Tito Francona's two-run double in the eighth gave it to the Orioles.

Chicago and Detroit swung for 36 hits, seven of them homers. The White Sox, who blew an 11-0 lead, rapped 22 hits, including two home runs by Sherm Lollar and one by Larry Doby. Ray Boone walloped two homers for the Tigers, Charlie Maxwell smacked a grand-slammer and Red Wilson hit one with a one aboard.

The 11 home runs for the day gave the major leagues a one-season home run record. The two leagues now have walloped 2,232 for the year, cracking the mark of 2,224 set in 1955.

Four members of the University of North Carolina's football coaching staff have served as college athletic directors — Jim Tatum at Maryland, Pat Preston at Wake Forest, Eddie Teague at Guilford and Jim Hickey at Hampden-Sydney.

Canton McKinley Tops Poll; Troy Ace Draws Applause

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Canton McKinley's state champion Bulldogs topped the season's first Associated Press poll of Ohio's high school grid teams today. But the Stark County wards of Wade Watts had to share the headlines.

Right up there alongside the crown-wearers in the public eye were the scoring feats of Bob Ferguson of Troy who is off to the finest start ever boasted by a Buckeye scholastic star.

In two games the 185-pounder has roared for 13 touchdowns, seven in the opener against Dayton Kiser and six Friday night against Monroe—two games Troy won by a total of 141 to 26. (Note to college coaches—he's just a junior.)

The feats of derring-do by Ferguson, who has roared for 881 yards rushing in two games for Coach Lou Juillerat's team, pushed the Trojans into tenth place in the statewide ratings.

Ferguson goes this week against Greenville, which lost both starts. So he figures to add to his 78-point total and creep up to the class A record of 296 for nine games set by Carl Smith of Washington Court House. Hubert Bobo of Chauncey-Dover holds the "B" record with 326 for 10 contests.

Of 26 sports editors participating in the opening poll, eight tagged the high-scoring Bulldogs as No. 1 as 61 different teams were mentioned in the 10-9-8-etc., voting plan.

Massillon, state champ seven straight years until tumbled by McKinley a year ago, failed to get a first choice nod but wound up second. McKinley had 213 poll points to the Tigers' 174. Mansfield's Tygers took third with 101 and East Liverpool fourth with 99.

From there the drop was big. Alliance landing fifth with 55—but that could be changed this week as the Aviators bang into Massillon.

Springfield is sixth, two points back of Alliance, with Cleveland St. Ignatius and Youngstown Ursuline tied for seventh. Portsmouth ninth and Troy rounding out the elite.

Springfield and Portsmouth tangle Friday at Springfield, so another early-season jumble of the standings is due there. Of the other leaders McKinley plays Barberton Saturday in Akron's Rubber Bowl, Mansfield entertains Hamilton, East Liverpool plays New Philadelphia. St. Ignatius meets Cleveland West, and Ursuline goes against Canton Central.

All the top 10 won their first two games, but Portsmouth's Trojans boast the only unsullied goal line.

Here is how Ohio sports editors rate the state's high school football teams. Shown are first place votes, total poll points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis, and points scored by and against:

Eastern Grid Championship Seen Decided This Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sounds mighty strange, with the season barely under way, but the mythical championship of the East could be decided Saturday when virtually every major college football team in the country swings into action.

Pitt and Syracuse, the two powers of the section, clash in Pittsburgh, and the winner very well could go through the rest of its schedule unbeaten. Main stumbling block in both schedules is Army.

A week ago, the Panthers would have ruled the heavy choice. But their struggling 14-13 decision over West Virginia last Saturday, combined with Syracuse's stunning 26-12 throttling of Maryland, could swing the pendulum to the Orange's favor. Pitt won on two recovered fumbles.

Syracuse wasn't supposed to have a chance against Maryland, which, as usual, was pointing for the national title. But the Terps showed nothing, and probably will have to wait until quarterback Frank Tamburello returns from the service before they begin thinking in terms of championships again.

Maryland will have a chance to pull its forces together this week against Wake Forest.

In an equally compromising position is mighty Notre Dame, the No. 3 team in this year's Associated Press preseason poll. The Irish were embarrassed 19-13 by Southern Methodist, reputedly one of the greenest teams in the South-western Conference.

Notre Dame lost a fistful of regulars from last year's team, and it could be that Paul Hornung, the veteran quarterback, won't be able to carry the load. It was the first time since 1934 Notre Dame has lost an opening game. Charlie Arnold scored one SMU touchdown, passed to another and set up the third.

The South Benders have an open date this week before meeting Indiana a week from Saturday.

Duke, Maryland's powerful bud-dy of the Atlantic Coast Conference, also has plenty of amends to make for its 7-0 defeat at the hands of South Carolina. The Gamecocks simply bottled up Duke's ace quarterback Sonny Jurgenson.

South Carolina hadn't whipped Duke in a quarter of a century and, for that matter never even had won an ACC game. Nor had the Blue Devils ever lost a league encounter.

Duke plays Virginia this week. Oklahoma and Michigan State, the Nos. 1 and 2 teams in the preseason poll, play their first games this week, along with most of the Big Ten and Ivy league clubs.

Oklahoma appears to have the easier assignment, entertaining North Carolina, already beaten 26-6 by North Carolina State.

Michigan State, however, is heading right for a hornets nest in Stanford. The Palo Alto Indians, 40-26 victors over Washington State, have high hopes of winning the Pacific Coast Conference crown.

Kay Donna Dee Wins At Lebanon

LEBANON (AP)—Kay Donna Dee ran away with both ends of the two-dash featured pace here Monday night, but had to extend herself to take the windup.

The four-year-old brown mare, owned by William Edwards of Columbus Grove, captured the first dash handily, moving into the lead from third at the three-quarter pole and winning with room to spare.

But in the second dash, she got away fourth from the barrier and in the driving bid up the stretch, just caught second-place Hal Castle at the wire.

Columbus Jets Fire Pilot Nick Cullop

COLUMBUS (AP)—Nick Cullop has been discharged as manager of the Columbus Jets.

General Manager Harold Cooper announced Monday that "Nick will not be rehired in 1956."

"We contemplate wholesale player changes in our ball club," Cooper said. "It is felt that a change of managers is also for the good of all concerned."

Cullop, 55, a native of St. Louis who lives now in Nashville, Tenn., led the independently owned Jets to two seventh place finishes in the International League.

Pro Grid Card Opens Sunday

Exhibition Schedule Shows Power In West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 12 members of the National Football League start playing for keeps Sunday with exhibition games indicating the strength of the circuit is in the Western Conference.

Only the New York Giants of the Eastern Conference finished above the .500 mark in exhibition games. By contrast four of the Western Conference teams wound up above that mark and the two others matched their won - lost columns.

The Chicago Bears, in a throw back to their pre-World War II glory days, won five straight games before dropping their final exhibition to the champion Cleveland Browns Friday 24-14. That, incidentally, was the Browns' only victory in six warm-ups.

The Bears 5-1 record gave them a slight margin in the standings over the Green Bay Packers, who compiled a 4-1 mark. Other Western Conference teams which finished above .500 were Detroit (4-2) and Baltimore (3-2). Los Angeles and San Francisco each broke even in six games.

The Giants topped the Eastern Division with a 4-2 mark followed by Washington with 3 - 3. Pittsburgh was 2-3, Philadelphia 2-5 and the Chicago Cardinals and Cleveland 1-5.

The Eagles chalked up their second triumph Sunday by defeating San Francisco 21-14 in one of the three weekend games. Bobby Thomason tossed two touchdown passes in leading the Eagles to victory.

The Washington Redskins, with Sam Baker kicking four field goals, blew a 16-3 third quarter lead but came back to defeat Detroit 19 - 17 Sunday on one of Baker's three pointers. The winning field goal came from 19 yards out with 2:37 remaining in the game.

The Steelers got into the victory column for the second time Saturday night by downing the Rams 20-17 as they took advantage of two pass interceptions and a fumble to score three touchdowns in the first half.

The season's openers Sunday present the following lineup: Bears at Baltimore, Cleveland at Cards, Detroit at Green Bay, New York at San Francisco, Philadelphia at Los Angeles and Washington at Pittsburgh.

Featherweight boxing champ Sandy Saddler has fought many times in Madison Square Garden but never travels far to get there. He lives in a hotel across the street from the New York Sports arena.

Haney, Birdie Agreed On One Point

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fred Haney, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, and Birdie Tebbets, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, are agreed on one point — each of their teams has to win all of its remaining games in order to win the National League pennant.

But that's a bit difficult to do. They were to play each other today in the last hand-to-hand game involving pennant contenders.

Brooklyn's defeat by Pittsburgh Monday night made the road a bit easier for Milwaukee. The Braves and Dodgers now are all even in the game lost column while the Redlegs have two defeats which must be made up if they are to win the pennant.

"We have to get help and we said Haney as he brought his Braves in for an all-important game with the Redlegs today. "We're in good shape," said Haney as his boys headed out for movies and a night of relaxation. On the Cincinnati side the situation was "just fair."

Home run hitting Ted Kluszewski still was out with a pulled muscle and Tebbets said "Klu" would continue to sit out as long as "George Crowe continues to hit and we continue to win."

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A PORTABLE WRITING BOARD

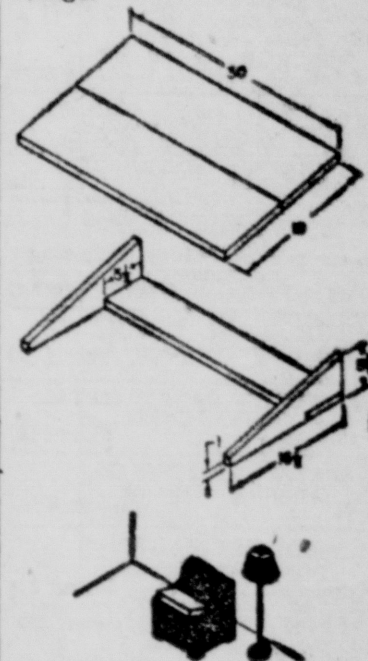

A writing board, which can be placed on any arm chair, quickly converts a lounge chair to a temporary desk. It can be used by the youngster for "coloring," the school child for homework, and by grown-ups for letter-writing.

The sides are made of 1 by 6-inch lumber. Taper the 16 1/2-inch boards as shown. Notch the sides 25/32-inch deep by 5/8-inch wide for the brace board. Use a miter box to assure square edges. Cut the brace board so that it fits tightly in the notches.

The top is made of two pieces of 1 by 10-inch lumber, 30 inches long. The boards are edge-glued; use of dowels is optional. If dowels are used, bore 3/4-inch holes 1-inch deep in the center of the edge of each board and 2 inches in from each end. Groove the dowel pins for stronger joints. If desired, the top may be a ready-made drawing board.

Assemble with glue and 6-penny finishing nails. Set all nail heads and fill the holes with wood filler. All sharp edges should be rounded. Paint or stain and varnish. If desired, the writing board can be easily converted to a portable compartment desk.

First, add a 1 by 1-inch strip between the narrow ends of the side. Next, add a 1 by 6-inch board to the high ends, and then fasten a bottom beneath the brace board and sides. For pencils, etc., attach strips of elastic to the brace board. Two hinges attached to the top board complete the change.

Last Chance Faces Redlegs In Game Today

Milwaukee, Cincinnati Set For Duel; Ohioans Must Win This One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cincinnati's Redlegs, staying alive with a six-game winning streak in the National League race, got one last chance to keep their foot in the pennant door today. All they had to do was beat Milwaukee.

It was no breather either for the Braves, who slipped back into first place by three percentage points when Pittsburgh jolted Brooklyn back to second 6-5 Monday night.

In fact, none of the contenders can take another loss and look healthy. But while a victory won't guarantee anything for the Redlegs, they'll be dead without it.

After today, the Redlegs have only two games (at Chicago). They are two games behind the Braves and Dodgers in the lost column.

The Brooklyn-Pittsburgh game, the last road game for the Dodgers, who hustle back to Ebbets Field for the opener of a two-game set with Philadelphia tonight, was the only contest scheduled in the NL Monday.

In the American, Baltimore whacked New York's pennant-winning hammered Detroit 14-11 on a two-game schedule.

Brooklyn held a .001 edge in the pennant chase for awhile Monday night after mopping up an 8-3 victory that had been placed on the shelf by curfew Sunday with the Braves at bat in the ninth inning. A one-two-three job by right-hander Clem Labine made it an official game and nailed Don Newcombe's 26th victory prior to the regularly scheduled game Monday night, but Clem couldn't make it as a starter in the afterpiece.

The Dodgers gave him a 3-0 lead in the first inning against Ed Friend, but the pesky Pirates bounced back with three in the bottom half of the frame.

Frank Thomas did the big damage for the Bucs, driving in three runs with his 24th homer and three singles—one of which drove home the clincher in the eighth after Gil Hodges had poled his 31st home run in Brooklyn's eighth with a man on to tie it 5-5.

It was Hodges' third home run in two days. He swatted two in only victory Brooklyn grabbed in the four-game series.

Reliever Roger Craig was the Brooklyn loser while Friend stuck it out for his 17th victory.

The Bucs, who knocked Brooklyn out of the 1954 pennant, have a three-game set at Ebbets Field in the season windup this week-end.

Bill Skowron hit two home runs for a 3-1 Yankee lead, but 18-year winner Johnny Kucks couldn't hold it. Tito Francona's two-run double in the eighth gave it to the Orioles.

Chicago and Detroit swung for 36 hits, seven of them homers. The White Sox, who blew an 11-0 lead, rapped 22 hits, including two home runs by Sherm Lollar and one by Larry Doby. Ray Boone walloped two homers for the Tigers, Charlie Maxwell smacked a 2nd-slammer and Red Wilson hit one with a one aboard.

The 11 home runs for the day gave the major leagues a one-season home run record. The two leagues now have walloped 2,232 for the year, cracking the mark of 2,224 set in 1955.

Four members of the University of North Carolina's football coaching staff have served as college athletic directors — Jim Tatum at Maryland, Pat Preston at Wake Forest, Eddie Teague at Guilford and Jim Hickey at Hampden-Sydney.

Canton McKinley Tops Poll; Troy Ace Draws Applause

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U) — Canton McKinley's state champion Bulldogs topped the season's first Associated Press poll of Ohio's high school grid teams today. But the Stark County wards of Wade Watts had to share the headlines. Right up there alongside the crown-wearers in the public eye were the scoring feats of Bob Ferguson of Troy who is off to the finest start ever boasted by a Buckeye scholastic star.

In two games the 185-pounder has roared for 13 touchdowns, seven in the opener against Dayton Kiser and six Friday night against Monroe—two games Troy won by a total of 141 to 26. (Note to college coaches—he's just a junior.)

The feats of derring-do by Ferguson, who has roared for 881 yards rushing in two games for Coach Lou Juller's team, pushed the Trojans into tenth place in the statewide ratings.

Ferguson goes this week against Greenville, which lost both starts. So he figures to add to his 78-point total and creep up on the class A record of 296 for nine games set by Carl Smith of Washington Court House. Hubert Bobo of Chaucery-Dover holds the "B" record with 326 for 10 contests.

Of 26 sports editors participating in the opening poll, eight tagged the high-scoring Bulldogs as No. 1 as 61 different teams were mentioned in the 10-9-8-etc., voting plan.

Massillon, state champ seven straight years until tumbled by McKinley a year ago, failed to get a first choice nod but wound up second. McKinley had 213 poll points to the Tigers' 174. Mansfield's Tygers took third with 101 and East Liverpool fourth with 99.

From there the drop was big. Alliance landing fifth with 55—but that could be changed this week as the Aviators bang into Massillon.

Springfield is sixth, two points back of Alliance, with Cleveland St. Ignatius and Youngstown Ursuline tied for seventh, Portsmouth ninth and Troy rounding out the elite.

Springfield and Portsmouth tangled Friday at Springfield, so another early-season jumble of the standings is due there. Of the other leaders McKinley plays Barberton Saturday in Akron's Rubber Bowl, Mansfield entertains Hamilton, East Liverpool plays New Philadelphia, St. Ignatius meets Cleveland West, and Ursuline goes against Canton Central.

All the top 10 won their first two games, but Portsmouth's Trojans boast the only unsullied goal line.

Here is how Ohio sports editors rate the state's high school football teams. Shown are first place votes, total poll points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis, and points scored by and against:

Teams	Top Ten	Points Scored Against
Canton McKinley (8)	213	140 12
Massillon (6)	174	81 13
Mansfield (1)	101	61 13
East Liverpool (1)	99	94 13
Alliance (2)	55	41 14
Springfield (2)	55	35 7
Cleveland St. Ignatius (4)	49	49 13
Youngstown Ursuline (3)	49	49 13
Portsmouth (0)	45	66 0
Troy (1)	38	141 26

Others: Youngstown South 37; New Philadelphia, East Cleveland Shav and Fremont Ross 32; Lakewood 30; Barberton 27; Cleveland Benedictine 26; Lorain 24; Toledo Libbey 23; Lancaster (1) 21; Sandusky 20; Columbus North (1) and Campbell Memorial 18; Cleveland St. Joseph 18; Steubenville Central 13; Canton Timken and Jackson 12; Pomeroy (1) 10; Nelsonville, Columbus St. Charles, Toledo Scott and Marion 9; Athens, Columbus West, Van Wert and Canton Lincoln 8; Hamilton and Chillicothe 7; Cincinnati Roger Bacon and Rio Grande 6; Belleaire St. Johns and Talawanda 5; Newark and Dayton Fairmont 4; Columbus Central, Belleville, Cleveland West Tech and Hamilton Catholic 3; Worthington, Youngstown Raven, St. Marys, Akron Central, Gallipolis and Cincinnati Purcell 2; Milford, Zanesville, Sidney, Toledo Devils, Goshen, Dover and Fremont St. Joe 1.

Pro Grid Card Opens Sunday

Exhibition Schedule Shows Power In West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 12 members of the National Football League start playing for keeps Sunday with exhibition games indicating that the strength of the circuit is in the Western Conference.

Only the New York Giants of the Eastern Conference finished above the .500 mark in exhibition games. By contrast four of the Western Conference teams wound up above that mark and the two others matched their won - lost columns.

The Chicago Bears, in a throw back to their pre-World War II glory days, won five straight games before dropping their final exhibition to the champion Cleveland Browns Friday 24-14. That, incidentally, was the Browns' only victory in six warm-ups.

The Bears 5-1 record gave them a slight margin in the standings over the Green Bay Packers, who compiled a 4-1 mark. Other Western Conference teams which finished above .500 were Detroit (4-2) and Baltimore (3-2). Los Angeles and San Francisco each broke even in six games.

The Giants topped the Eastern Division with a 4-2 mark followed by Washington with 3 - 3. Pittsburgh was 2-3, Philadelphia 2-5 and the Chicago Cardinals and Cleveland 1-5.

The Eagles chalked up their second triumph Sunday by defeating San Francisco 21-14 in one of the three weekend games. Bobby Thomason tossed two touchdown passes in leading the Eagles to victory.

The Washington Redskins, with Sam Baker kicking four field goals, blew a 16-3 third quarter lead but came back to defeat Detroit 19 - 17 Sunday on one of Baker's three pointers. The winning field goal came from 19 yards out with 2:37 remaining in the game.

The Steelers got into the victory column for the second time Saturday night by downing the Rams 20-17 as they took advantage of two pass interceptions and a fumble to score three touchdowns in the first half.

The season's openers Sunday present the following lineup: Bears at Baltimore, Cleveland at Cards, Detroit at Green Bay, New York at San Francisco, Philadelphia at Los Angeles and Washington at Pittsburgh.

Featherweight boxing champ Sandy Saddler has fought many times in Madison Square Garden but never travels far to get there. He lives in a hotel across the street from the New York Sports arena.

Haney, Birdie Agreed On One Point

CINCINNATI (U) — Fred Haney, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, and Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, are agreed on one point — each of their teams has to win all of its remaining games in order to win the National League pennant.

But that's a bit difficult to do. They were to play each other today in the last hand-to-hand game involving pennant contenders.

Brooklyn's defeat by Pittsburgh Monday night made the race a bit easier for Milwaukee. The Braves and Dodgers now are all even in the game lost column while the Reds have two defeats which must be made up if they are to win the pennant.

"We have to get help and we said Haney as he brought his Braves in for an all-important game with the Redlegs today.

"We're in good shape," said Haney as his boys headed out for movies and a night of relaxation. On the Cincinnati side the situation was "just fair."

Home run hitting Ted Klusowski still was out with a pulled muscle and Tebbetts said "Klu" would continue to sit out as long as "George Crowe continues to hit and we continue to win."

Eastern Grid Championship Seen Decided This Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sounds mighty strange, with the season barely under way, but the mythical championship of the East could be decided Saturday when virtually every major college football team in the country swings into action.

Pitt and Syracuse, the two powers of the section, clash in Pittsburgh, and the winner very well could go through the rest of its schedule unbeaten. Main stumbling block in both schedules is Army.

A week ago, the Panthers would have ruled the heavy choice. But their struggling 14-13 decision over West Virginia last Saturday, combined with Syracuse's stunning 26-12 throttling of Maryland, could swing the pendulum to the Orange's favor. Pitt won on two recovered fumbles.

Syracuse wasn't supposed to have a chance against Maryland, which, as usual, was pointing for the national title. But the Terps showed nothing, and probably will have to wait until quarterback Frank Tamburello returns from the service before they begin thinking in terms of championships again.

Maryland will have a chance to pull its forces together this week against Wake Forest.

In an equally compromising position is mighty Notre Dame, the No. 3 team in this year's Associated Press preseason poll. The Irish were embarrassed 19-13 by Southern Methodist, reputedly one of the greenest teams in the Southwest Conference.

Notre Dame lost a fistful of regulars from last year's team, and it could be that Paul Hornung, the veteran quarterback, won't be able to carry the load. It was the first time since 1934 Notre Dame has lost an opening game. Charlie Arnold scored one SMU touchdown, passed to another and set up the third.

The South Benders have an open date this week before meeting Indiana a week from Saturday.

Duke, Maryland's powerful buddy of the Atlantic Coast Conference, also has plenty of amends to make for its 7-0 defeat at the hands of South Carolina. The Gamecocks simply bottled up Duke's ace quarterback Sonny Jurgensen.

South Carolina hadn't whipped Duke in a quarter of a century and, for that matter never even had won an ACC game. Nor had the Blue Devils ever lost a league encounter.

Duke plays Virginia this week. Oklahoma and Michigan State, the Nos. 1 and 2 teams in the preseason poll, play their first games this week, along with most of the Big Ten and Ivy league clubs.

Oklahoma appears to have the easier assignment, entertaining North Carolina, already beaten 26-6 by North Carolina State.

Michigan State, however, is heading right for a hornets nest in Stanford. The Palo Alto Indians, 49-26 victors over Washington State, have high hopes of winning the Pacific Coast Conference crown.

Kay Donna Dee Wins At Lebanon

LEBANON (U) — Kay Donna Dee ran away with both ends of the two-dash featured pace here Monday night, but had to extend herself to take the windup.

The four-year-old brown mare, owned by William Edwards of Columbus Grove, captured the first dash handily, moving into the lead from third at the three-quarter pole and winning with room to spare.

But in the second dash, she got away fourth from the barrier and in the driving bid up the stretch, just caught second-place Hal Castle at the wire.

Columbus Jets Fire Pilot Nick Cullop

COLUMBUS (U) — Nick Cullop has been discharged as manager of the Columbus Jets.

General Manager Harold Cooper announced Monday that "Nick will not be rehired in 1956."

"We contemplate wholesale player changes in our ball club," Cooper said. "It is felt that a change of managers is also for the good of all concerned."

Cullop, 55, a native of St. Louis who lives now in Nashville, Tenn., led the independently owned Jets to two seventh place finishes in the International League.

HERE'S HOW... MAKE A PORTABLE WRITING BOARD

A writing board, which can be placed on any arm chair, quickly converts a lounge chair to a temporary desk. It can be used by the youngster for "coloring," the school child for homework, and by grown-ups for letter-writing.

The sides are made of 1 by 6-inch lumber. Taper the 16 1/2-inch boards as shown. Notch the sides 25/32-inch deep by 5 1/4-inches wide for the brace board. Use a miter box to assure square edges. Cut the brace board so that it fits tightly in the notches.

The top is made of two pieces of 1 by 10-inch lumber, 30 inches long. The boards are edge-glued; use of dowels is optional. If dowels are used, bore 1/4-inch holes 1-inch deep in the center of the edge of each board and 2 inches in from each end. Groove the dowel pins for stronger joints. If desired, the top may be a ready-made drawing board.

Assemble with glue and 6-penny finishing nails. Set all nail heads and fill the holes with wood filler. All sharp edges should be rounded.

Paint or stain and varnish.

If desired, the writing board can be easily converted to a portable compartment desk.

CHS Reserve Gridders Defeat Logan, 27-6, For 2nd Victory

Racking up their second straight victory of the season, the Circleville High School reserve footballers, the Kittens, buried Logan's Junior gridders by a 27-6 score at Logan Monday.

In rolling up the 16th victory in their last 18 games over a three-season period, the Kittens scored four times in the last three quarters in spite of losing the ball by fumbles five times.

After a scoreless first quarter, Circleville started a drive from their own 35 early in the second period.

Quarterback Tom Greeno capped the scoring thrust by sweeping end from 11 yards out. Ray Phifer passed to Walt Arledge for the extra point and the Kittens led, 7-0.

MIDWAY through the second quarter, the Tiger reserves scored again. After recovering a Logan fumble on the opponents 42, CHS drove to the 14.

From that point, Arledge took a pitchout from Greeno and sped around end to score standing up. Ted Wellington cracked off tackle for the extra point and the Kittens took a 14-0 lead.

Logan's only touchdown came late in the first half. After recovering a CHS fumble on the Kittens' 38, the home team marched to the 21.

A few moments later they scored on an end run. An attempted run for the extra point was short.

The longest run of the day came in the third quarter by the Kittens' Walt Arledge. He took a pitchout from Greeno and behind good blocking sped 81 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was missed.

After a "fumbling" fourth quarter, the CHS gridders got their final touchdown on the last play of the game. With time running out, the locals gained possession of the ball on the Logan 45 yard line.

Arledge hit Dick Greenlee with a pass that moved the ball to the 25.

AFTER TWO passes failed, and with time remaining for only one play, Arledge fired a pass to Ray Phifer who gathered in the pigskin on the 10 and ran into the end zone. Greeno's quarterback sneak added the extra point.

The Kittens' next home game will be Monday when they open their SCOL season against Greenfield's reserves. The Kittens will be shooting for their third straight league championship.

Nebraska Expected To Be Stern Foe

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State Football Coach Woody Hayes expects Nebraska to be a stern test Saturday but believes his Bucks will win their opener.

The Cornhuskers, 34-6 victors over South Dakota Saturday, will field a sound team running from the split-T. Buckeye scout Gene Fekete reports.

"Nebraska has more depth and flashier runners than it had a year ago when we won 28-20," Fekete said. "If the Cornhuskers can get a few injuries healed, and fix some of the mistakes they made against South Dakota, they should be a strong contender in their Big Seven conference."

British Heavy Flops In Fifth

NEW YORK (AP)—After two straight British victories in as many weeks at St. Nicholas Arena, it was highly unlikely that Joey Bygraves could make it three. He didn't.

The British Empire heavyweight champion, following the custom on the other side of the Atlantic, "retired" at the end of the fifth round of his television 10-rounder with aggressive, busy-punching Wayne Bethea of New York.

Dropped in the fifth round for an eight count, tired and dejected, the muscular, six-foot Briton via Jamaica said he had enough between the fifth and sixth rounds. It went into the books as a fifth round technical knockout.

Sokolsky's These Days

It would be interesting to know what the "flagrant examples of such religious statements" were. What is a "flagrant example"? It might be one of those old Anglo-Saxon words which are bad but become less bad when spoken in a lengthened derivative from the Latin. It might be the restatement of the moral law as the teacher learned it from her parents which might be slightly different from what the child's mother learned in her childhood.

Five years ago I attended a most interesting meeting of the Natural Law Institute of the University of Notre Dame at which for several days, Jews, Catholics, Protestants, Confucians, Moslems, Buddhists, Hindus discussed the Natural Law, each from his own standpoint, and when the sessions were over, there was no disagreement as to the moral law of God, but there were also no conversions. Each went his own way but all really went the same way, that is in the same direction.

The parents and teachers of the Jamaica High School truly need not fear God or any expression of reverence for Him; what they should fear is that their children will believe that those whom they hope to emulate will be not saints but sinners.

Remarkable Changes Seen In College Grid Rankings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The opinions of football prognosticators, like those of ardent alumni, often are influenced sharply by victories and defeats.

Thus the first Associated Press football ranking poll since the regular season began shows a couple of rather remarkable changes.

Two highly rated teams, Notre Dame and Maryland, are missing from the first 10 after opening game defeats by Southern Methodist and Syracuse, who gained places in the top group.

Two others, one a winner and one which hasn't yet played its opening game, dropped into the second division as enthusiasm for a couple of winners was reflected in the ballots of sports writers and broadcasters.

The experts, 150 strong, stuck by their preseason poll prediction by listing Oklahoma's Sooners as the No. 1 team. Oklahoma doesn't open its season until next Saturday, when it plays North Carolina.

Oklahoma was listed first on 91 of 150 ballots and polled a total of 1,150 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Georgia Tech, winner over Kentucky, moved ahead of still-idle Michigan State into second place. Notre Dame, third in the preseason rankings, wound up down in 14th place with only 142 points after its 19-13 defeat by Southern Methodist. The Mustangs, not even listed among the first 20 in preseason picks, took fifth place behind Texas Christian, an impressive winner over Kansas.

The next five are Southern California, Syracuse, Ohio State, Mississippi and Pittsburgh.

The top 10 with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Oklahoma (91) ..... 1,150
2. Georgia Tech (12) ..... 946
3. Michigan State (9) ..... 914
4. Texas Christian (4) ..... 792
5. SMU (10) ..... 627
6. USC (12) ..... 591
7. Syracuse (4) ..... 469
8. Ohio State ..... 458
9. Mississippi ..... 305
10. Pittsburgh (2) ..... 296

Second 10:

11. Texas A&M ..... 291
12. Stanford (4) ..... 249
13. Michigan ..... 241
14. Notre Dame ..... 142
15. Vanderbilt ..... 94
16. Army ..... 80
17. South Carolina ..... 71
18. Oregon ..... 67
19. Florida ..... 60
20. N.C. State ..... 53

Browns Pare Roster To 36 Players

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns were down to 36 players today, with one more to be cut before their opener in Chicago Sunday against the Chicago Cardinals.

That's about half of the roster with which the club started training two months ago.

Waivers were asked Monday on quarterback Jim Root and three rookie linemen—tackle Fred Robinson of the University of Washington, end Jack Gotta of Oregon State, and center Jim Furey of Kansas State.

Linebacker Pete Perini, who hasn't been with the team for a month because of a knee injury, also went on the waiver list.

Perini is the only member of the 1955 National Football League championship squad to be cut. Quarterback Otto Graham and halfback Dub Jones retired and tackle John Sandusky was traded to the Detroit Lions. The remaining 29 veterans remain on the roster, although defensive halfback Tommy James may lose out in the final cuts.

In seven pre-season games, the Browns won only their opener against the College All-Stars and their finale, also in Soldier Field, Friday night against the Chicago Bears. But attendance at the games added up to an all-time exhibition game record of 313,000.

She Demands, Gets White Fire Plug

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. O. Z. Russell, 74, thinks yellow, except in flowers, is a horrible color. And when a yellow fire hydrant was installed in front of her home she telephoned her objection to City Manager Henry Yancey. He asked the highly respected retired school teacher the color she'd like to have the hydrant. She said white, and today it is the only white fire hydrant in the city.

Reds Aid Afghans

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Afghanistan is getting up to $23 million worth of arms from the Communist world, according to a diplomatic report from the Afghan capital of Kabul.

Jackson, Baker Awaiting Match

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson and big Bob Baker, bidding for a crack at the heavyweight title, clash here Wednesday night in a 12-round televised outdoor bout.

The man who comes out on top is almost a sure bet for a shot at the winner of the agreed upon but still unsigned title fight between lightweight champ Archie Moore and young Floyd Patterson. Jackson is ranked No. 3 and Baker No. 4.

Jackson, the tireless but erratic 25-year-old New Yorker, won a split decision over Baker in their first meeting Feb. 3.

High Taxes Seen Staying Long Time

LOS ANGELES (AP)—High taxes will be needed for a long time, says an assistant secretary of the U. S. Treasury.

Laurens Williams told the tax executives institute:

"As long as the world situation continues to demand high expenditures for defense... you may expect limited relief in some quarters, but for all practical purposes the nation's needs will require high taxes for a long time to come."

Nebraska Expected To Be Stern Foe

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State Football Coach Woody Hayes expects Nebraska to be a stern test Saturday but believes his Bucks will win their opener.

The Cornhuskers, 34-6 victors over South Dakota Saturday, will field a sound team running from the split-T. Buckeye scout Gene Fekete reports.

"Nebraska has more depth and flashier runners than it had a year ago when we won 28-20," Fekete said. "If the Cornhuskers can get a few injuries healed, and fix some of the mistakes they made against South Dakota, they should be a strong contender in their Big Seven conference."

Remarkable Changes Seen In College Grid Rankings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The opinions of football prognosticators, like those of ardent alumni, often are influenced sharply by victories and defeats. Thus the first Associated Press football ranking poll since the regular season began shows a couple of rather remarkable changes.

Two highly rated teams, Notre Dame and Maryland, are missing from the first 10 after opening game defeats by Southern Methodist and Syracuse, who gained places in the top group.

Two others, one a winner and one which hasn't yet played its opening game, dropped into the second division as enthusiasm for a couple of winners was reflected in the ballots of sports writers and broadcasters.

The experts, 150 strong, stuck by their preseason poll prediction by listing Oklahoma's Sooners as the No. 1 team. Oklahoma doesn't open its season until next Saturday, when it plays North Carolina.

Oklahoma was listed first on 91 of 150 ballots and polled a total of 1,150 points on the usual basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Georgia Tech, winner over Kentucky, moved ahead of still-idle Michigan State into second place. Notre Dame, third in the preseason rankings, wound up down in 14th place with only 142 points after its 19-13 defeat by Southern Methodist. The Mustangs, not even listed among the first 20 in preseason picks, took fifth place behind Texas Christian, an impressive winner over Kansas.

The next five are Southern California, Syracuse, Ohio State, Mississippi and Pittsburgh.

The top 10 with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Oklahoma (91) .....1,150
2. Georgia Tech (12) ..... 946
3. Michigan State (9) ..... 914
4. Texas Christian (4) ..... 792
5. SMU (10) ..... 627
6. USC (12) ..... 591
7. Syracuse (4) ..... 469
8. Ohio State ..... 458
9. Mississippi ..... 305
10. Pittsburgh (2) ..... 296

11. Texas A&M ..... 291

14. Notre Dame ..... 142
15. Vanderbilt ..... 94

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Browns were down to 36 players today, with one more to be cut before their opener in Chicago Sunday against the Chicago Cardinals.

That's about half of the roster with which the club started training two months ago.

Waivers were asked Monday on quarterback Jim Root and three rookie linemen—tackle Fred Robinson of the University of Washington, end Jack Gotta of Oregon State, and center Jim Furey of Kansas State.

Linebacker Pete Perini, who hasn't been with the team for a month because of a knee injury, also went on the waiver list.

Perini is the only member of the 1955 National Football League championship squad to be cut. Quarterback Otto Graham and halfback Dub Jones retired and tackle John Sandusky was traded to the Detroit Lions. The remaining 29 veterans remain on the roster, although defensive halfback Tommy James may lose out in the final cuts.

In seven pre-season games, the Browns won only their opener against the College All-Stars and their finale, also in Soldier Field, Friday night against the Chicago Bears. But attendance at the games added up to an all-time exhibition game record of 313,000.

She Demands, Gets White Fire Plug

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. O. Z. Russell, 74, thinks yellow, except in flowers, is a horrible color. And when a yellow fire hydrant was installed in front of her home she telephoned her objection to City Manager Henry Yancey. He asked the highly respected retired school teacher the color she'd like to have the hydrant. She said white, and today it is the only white fire hydrant in the city.

Jackson, Baker Awaiting Match

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson and Big Bob Baker, bidding for a crack at the heavyweight title, clash here Wednesday night in a 12-round televised outdoor bout.

The man who comes out on top is almost a sure bet for a shot at the winner of the agreed upon but still unsigned title fight between lightweight champ Archie Moore and young Floyd Patterson. Jackson is ranked No. 3 and Baker No. 4.

Jackson, the tireless but erratic 25-year-old New Yorker, won a split decision over Baker in their first meeting Feb. 3.

High Taxes Seen Staying Long Time

LOS ANGELES (AP)—High taxes will be needed for a long time, says an assistant secretary of the U. S. Treasury.

Lauren Williams told the tax executives institute:

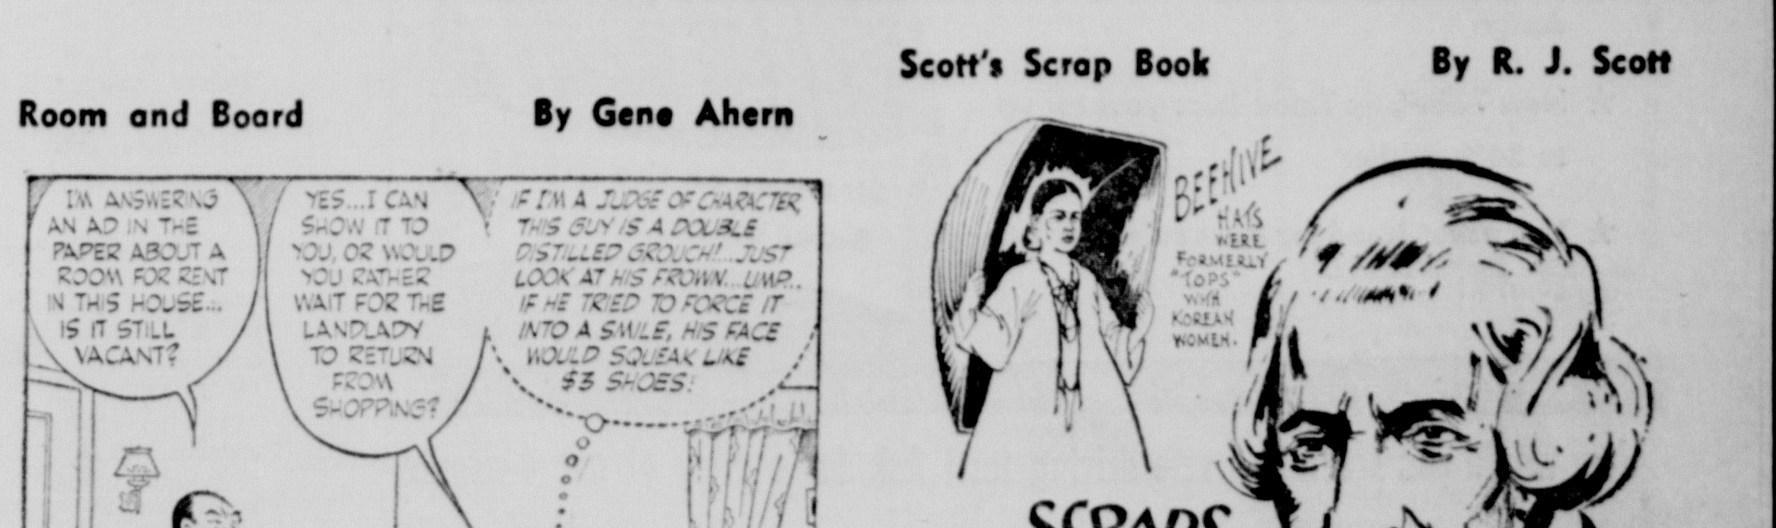

"As long as the world situation continues to demand high expenditures for defense...you may expect limited relief in some quarters, but for all practical purposes the nation's needs will require high taxes for a long time to come."

State-Wide Drive Aimed To Reduce Corn Picker Accidents

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

The Ohio Agricultural Extension Service and the Future Farmers of America have embarked on a state-wide campaign to reduce corn picker accidents this Fall. Picking of field corn is now getting under way in some areas.

Before the full force of the picking season starts, FFA youths will carry safety messages to every corn picker operator in their areas. On the snouts of hundreds of pickers they will paste green and white stickers reading: "The operator of this picker is cooperating with the Future Farmers of America and the Agricultural Extension Service to reduce accidents."

Packets containing the stickers, safety bulletins, and suggestions for carrying out the program are being sent to all vocational agriculture teachers and county extension agents. In launching the campaign, the Agricultural Extension Service and the Future Farmers recognize that, per hour of use, the corn picker is one of the most dangerous machines on the farm. Each year hundreds of farmers lose arms and hands in its snapping rolls.

This year's corn picker safety program revives a campaign conducted in 1949 and 1950. W. E. Stuckey, Ohio State University extension safety specialist recalls that in 1949 Future Farmers contacted 8,756 picker operators. That year corn picker accidents in the state dropped to 104, compared to 231 the previous year. Stuckey urges picker operators and owners to cooperate with the program for a safe corn harvest in 1956.

It costs about $30 an acre to grow wheat, regardless of whether a farmer gets a big or a small yield, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in a statement based on studies by agricultural economists.

"At present price levels," says the committee, "this means that a farmer has to produce 15 or more bushels before he begins to make a profit. "How much net income there after a farmer gets on his wheat crop depends on how many extra bushels he harvests after costs of production have been met.

"That's why it pays to use soil management methods that will boost yields to high levels per acre."

One way to accomplish this, says the committee, is to provide the wheat crop with balanced supplies of needed nutrients in generous quantities.

"Wheat is one of the most responsive of all crops to fertilizer," says the committee, "but it needs the nutrients in quickly available form. Some soils specialists advise adding as much as 500 pounds per acre of plant food to winter wheat in the Fall.

There's not much profit in the dairy business these days for the farmer who milks "average cows." Such cows will hardly more than pay for their keep.

Ross Milner, Ohio State University extension economist, makes these observations after studying records of 60 better-than-average Ohio dairy farmers. These farmers had an average income last year of about $3,400.

They kept around 24 cows which produced 9,360 pounds of milk testing 3.5 percent butterfat. (The average Ohio cow last year produced 6,800 pounds of milk). The farmers received about $3.77 a hundredweight at the market for their milk.

If these 60 farmers had milked "average" cows, Milner says, their farm income would have been only $1,234, based on the $3.77 price. Farm income is the amount of money farm families have to live on.

Those farmers who made the most money among the 60, Milner points out, kept cows which produced about 10,516 pounds of milk. Their incomes averaged $7,300. They handled no more cows than the others, but they also had better crop yields, were more efficient in production, and followed better management practices.

Three Dimensional Color TV Envisioned Coming By 1975

HOUSTON (AP) — Three dimensional color television by 1975 is predicted by Ray Campbell, Western Division executive vice president of the Foote, Cone & Belding advertising firm. He also predicts by 1960 more than half of all television sets will be color.

"Within 10 years," he told an advertising men's meeting, "we can expect to see closed circuit television in every room in the house. It is likely that in the living room you will find mural television—on a wall, almost flat and measuring possibly five feet by seven feet."

Despite the television boom, he said, newspapers still control most of the nation's 10 - billion-dollar advertising budget. Newspapers now receive three billion dollars against one billion for television, he said.

Capital Airlines Seeking OK On Expansion Into Florida

WASHINGTON (AP)—Capital Airlines, claiming an "acute need for greater financial strength," proposed today to extend its Great Lakes area routes into the rich Florida market.

The firm's president, J. H. Carmichael, estimated capital could add $3,389,000 a year in net income if granted permission to haul northerners all the way to Miami.

"In 1955, we had a net operating income of only $494,000," he said in testimony for a civil aeronautics board hearing.

"This was only a minute fraction of the net operating income earned by each of the strong, long haul carriers with which we must compete for most of our traffic—namely, American, Eastern, United, TWA, Delta and Northwest."

Carmichael's request for more Capital routes came at a hearing in which 10 airlines are competing for service affecting air traffic in some 100 cities from the Great Lakes to the southeast.

The cities are enclosed in a pie-shaped area bordered by a line drawn on a map from Chicago to run on the south to Miami via Jacksonville, Tampa, St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach on the north to Buffalo via Erie and to Detroit via Youngstown, Canton, Akron, Cleveland and Toledo.

2. Set up a Capital run between Chicago-Detroit and Miami, with intermediate points at Indianapolis, Toledo, Dayton, Cincinnati, Louisville, Knoxville, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Tampa, St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach.

3. Establish a Baltimore-Washington to Miami run through Virginia cities, North Carolina cities, Atlanta, Jackson, Tampa, St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach.

One of the biggest carriers now flying northerners to Miami is Eastern Air Lines. Asked about that service, Carmichael replied: "It is my firm belief that Eastern's service is not adequate for the traveling public in such major markets as Detroit-Miami, Cleveland-Miami, Pittsburgh-Miami and perhaps others."

A new "inner car" gives you a NEW KIND of FORD for 1957! Coming October 3rd

On Wednesday, October 3rd, Ford Dealers throughout the United States will unveil a new kind of automobile!

Cars are involved in every American's life. News of a new kind of car is the biggest kind of news to millions of Americans.

The Big New Kind of Ford is that kind of news . . . a car totally new in design from crest to trunk lock.

This completely new automotive package will sell at the traditionally low Ford prices.

This makes possible a new high standard of such honest-to-goodness value that it actually increases the purchasing power of your automobile dollar.

When you see it, other cars will look out of date, because . . .

This is Where Tomorrow Starts . . . with a Big New Kind of Ford!

The New Kind of Ford is the fullest, most eloquent expression of Ford's special personality—the youthful grace, the whiplash action, the reputation for durability known wherever there's a road.

To all this we have added true elegance—a kind of elegance never before seen in the low-price field.

Elegance is more than skin-deep. Modern design goes far deeper than chrome trim.

To make a car truly elegant, you have to start deep-down inside.

The New Inner Ford

The Inner Ford—the car you cannot see—is a very remarkable structure. Its frame is actually a cradle. Side members extend almost the full body width.

The driveshaft has been lowered to connect with the differential, virtually at its lowest point. This is one of several factors that makes practical the lowering of over-all height by as much as 4 inches.

The side rails, extended almost full body width, serve not only as supporting members but as concealed side bumpers of immense strength.

The New Ford Body

The new Ford body is a triumph of engineering in steel—steel cushioned for luxury, steel insulated against sound, steel joined to steel for tremendous strength, steel designed to give you greater safety.

The doors close with the solid finality of a bank vault. Even the door-lock button has been moved up front—easier for you to reach, but out of the children's reach.

The new body is mounted on twenty live-rubber mounts to keep your ride silent, solid and secure.

All these features were engineered to give you a solid new kind of comfort.

The New Ford Ride

The way a car rides is more than the way it moves—it starts with the way it sits.

The New Kind of Ford sits six people as no other low-priced car has ever sat them—six elbows wide in each seat, with deep space around each one of six knees. And above all that space, there's hat room to spare for all six passengers.

With that sitting basis, the engineers then designed the new rock-solid velvet-road ride

The 1957 Ford rides low, solid, with a firm, deep road-holding feel. Yet it's a light-hearted, flight-hearted ride—this car is responsive, nimble, agile, with a proud easy movement through traffic and away to the head of the turnpike.

The New Ford Choice

Ford offers not only one, but two sizes of cars . . . each on its own extended wheelbase . . . each with its own body shell . . . each with its own styling.

First, the two Fairlane Series on a 118-inch wheelbase. The Fairlane 500's come in 5 body types, a four-door sedan, a two-door sedan, a two- and four-door Victoria with no center pillars, and a convertible coupe. The same body types (except for the convertible) are available in the Fairlane Series.

Both Fairlane Series introduce an innovation through the use of special window ornamentation and narrow center pillars. Both the four-door and the two-door sedans have true hardtop styling.

Second, two Custom Series mounted on the 116-inch wheelbase chassis. In the Custom 300 Series, a four-door and a two-door sedan are distinguished from the Custom models by more luxurious interiors and elaborate trim. The Custom Series includes a Business Sedan.

The Custom 300 and Custom models are lower, heavier, and livelier than any cars selling in Ford's price range today.

Beyond all these, you also have your choice of five Station Wagons—the famous glamour cruisers that are the champions in this field!

The New Ford Look

That low, low cradle-span frame means a low, low car. The Fairlane 500 is only four feet eight inches from road to roof! The Custom is just over four feet nine!

The New Ford is not only low—but long. Ford gives you more than 17 feet of elegant length in the Fairlane Series, a shade less in the Custom. And all that length and lowness is shaped in a design that is wonderfully, radically new in American automobiles!

Its personality is glittering, sophisticated. It's a nice kind of fun just to look at it.

It's high-priced in every way except price.

The New Ford Performance

If you're a bug on horsepower and like it big, the new Silver Anniversary V-8's are for you. You can have up to 245 wonderful Thunderbird horsepower in any Ford model. There's a moderate—and really moderate—extra charge for this engine of 312 cubic inches with its 4-barrel carburetor. It's the honey of them all.

For "Six" lovers, we've got a beauty, too—the 144-hp Mileage Maker Six. Whether you choose Six or V-8, the going is great!

Here is where your own tomorrow starts

It starts at the nearest Ford Dealer's showroom!

The cars will be there on Wednesday, October 3.

They will be standing still on the floor—but they will seem to be moving, for they have a quicksilver kind of beauty that just doesn't stand still.

Every line has a "machined rightness" to it, the sharp clear-cut stamp of beauty wrapped around power.

These are the best Fords of our lives. They are the first symbols out of Detroit of the new automotive age that is beginning for you.

1957 came early this year.

This is where tomorrow starts—at your Ford Dealer's.

This is when your tomorrow starts—October 3rd.

Come in and see us for the Big New Kind of Ford!

"This was only a minute fraction of the net operating income earned by each of the strong, long haul carriers with which we must compete for most of our traffic—namely, American, Eastern, United, TWA, Delta and Northwest."

Carmichael's request for more Capital routes came at a hearing in which 10 airlines are competing for service affecting air traffic in some 100 cities from the Great Lakes to the southeast.

The cities are enclosed in a pie-shaped area bordered by a line drawn on a map from Chicago to Detroit to Buffalo, down to Washington - Baltimore, then south to Miami, east to Atlanta and back to Chicago.

As Carmichael outlined his line's proposals today for CAB examiner William F. Cusick, Capital wants to:

1. Extend its Pittsburgh-Atlanta

run on the south to Miami via Jacksonville, Tampa, St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach on the north to Buffalo via Erie and Detroit via Youngstown, Canton, Akron, Cleveland and Toledo.

2. Set up a Capital run between Chicago-Detroit and Miami, with intermediate points at Indianapolis, Toledo, Dayton, Cincinnati, Louisville, Knoxville, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Tampa, St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach.

3. Establish a Baltimore-Washington to Miami run through Virginia cities, North Carolina cities, Atlanta, Jackson, Tampa, St. Petersburg and West Palm Beach.

One of the biggest carriers now flying northerners to Miami is Eastern Air Lines. Asked about that service, Carmichael replied: "It is my firm belief that Eastern's service is not adequate for the traveling public in such major markets as Detroit-Miami, Cleveland-Miami, Pittsburgh-Miami and perhaps others."

A new "inner car" gives you a NEW KIND of FORD for 1957! Coming October 3rd

On Wednesday, October 3rd, Ford Dealers throughout the United States will unveil a new kind of automobile!

Cars are involved in every American's life. News of a new kind of car is the biggest kind of news to millions of Americans.

The Big New Kind of Ford is that kind of news... a car totally new in design from crest to trunk lock.

This completely new automotive package will sell at the traditionally low Ford prices.

This makes possible a new high standard of such honest-to-goodness value that it actually increases the purchasing power of your automobile dollar.

When you see it, other cars will look out of date, because...

This is Where Tomorrow Starts... with a Big New Kind of Ford!

The New Kind of Ford is the fullest, most eloquent expression of Ford's special personality—the youthful grace, the whiplash action, the reputation for durability known wherever there's a road.

To all this we have added true elegance—a kind of elegance never before seen in the low-price field.

Elegance is more than skin-deep. Modern design goes far deeper than chrome trim.

To make a car truly elegant, you have to start deep-down inside.

The New Inner Ford

The Inner Ford—the car you cannot see—is a very remarkable structure. Its frame is actually a cradle. Side members extend almost the full body width.

The driveshaft has been lowered to connect with the differential, virtually at its lowest point. This is one of several factors that makes practical the lowering of over-all height by as much as 4 inches.

The side rails, extended almost full body width, serve not only as supporting members but as concealed side bumpers of immense strength.

The New Ford Body

The new Ford body is a triumph of engineering in steel—steel cushioned for luxury, steel insulated against sound, steel joined to steel for tremendous strength, steel designed to give you greater safety.

The doors close with the solid finality of a bank vault. Even the door-lock button has been moved up front—easier for you to reach, but out of the children's reach.

The new body is mounted on twenty live-rubber mounts to keep your ride silent, solid and secure.

All these features were engineered to give you a new kind of comfort.

The New Ford Ride

The way a car rides is more than the way it moves—it starts with the way it sits.

The New Kind of Ford sits six people as no other low-priced car has ever sat them—six elbows wide in each seat, with deep space around each one of six knees. And above all that space, there's hat room to spare for all six passengers.

With that sitting basis, the engineers then designed the new rock-solid velvet road ride.

The 1957 Ford rides low, solid, with a firm, deep road-holding feel. Yet it's a light-hearted, flight-hearted ride—this car is responsive, nimble, agile, with a proud easy movement through traffic and away to the head of the turnpike.

The New Ford Choice

Ford offers not only one, but two sizes of cars... each on its own extended wheelbase... each with its own body shell... each with its own styling.

First, the two Fairlane Series on a 118-inch wheelbase. The Fairlane 500's come in 5 body types, a four-door sedan, a two-door sedan, a two- and four-door Victoria with no center pillars, and a convertible coupe. The same body types (except for the convertible) are available in the Fairlane Series.

Both Fairlane Series introduce an innovation through the use of special window ornamentation and narrow center pillars. Both the four-door and the two-door sedans have true hardtop styling.

Second, two Custom Series mounted on the 116-inch wheelbase chassis. In the Custom 300 Series, a four-door and a two-door sedan are distinguished from the Custom models by more luxurious interiors and elaborate trim. The Custom Series includes a Business Sedan.

The Custom 300 and Custom models are lower, heavier, and livelier than any cars selling in Ford's price range today.

Beyond all these, you also have your choice of five Station Wagons—the famous glamour cruisers that are the champions in this field!

The New Ford Look

That low, low cradle-span frame means a low, low car. The Fairlane 500 is only four feet eight inches from road to roof! The Custom is just over four feet nine!

The New Ford is not only low—but long. Ford gives you more than 17 feet of elegant length in the Fairlane Series.

a shade less in the Custom. And all that length and lowness is shaped in a design that is wonderfully, radically new in American automobiles!

Its personality is glittering, sophisticated. It's a nice kind of fun just to look at it.

It's high-priced in every way except price.

The New Ford Performance

If you're a bug on horsepower and like it big, the new Silver Anniversary V-8's are for you. You can have up to 245 wonderful Thunderbird horsepower in any Ford model. There's a moderate—and really moderate—extra charge for this engine of 312 cubic inches with its 4-barrel carburetor. It's the honey of them all.

For "Six" lovers, we've got a beauty, too—the 144-hp Mileage Maker Six. Whether you choose Six or V-8, the going is great!

Here is where your own tomorrow starts

It starts at the nearest Ford Dealer's showroom!

The cars will be there on Wednesday, October 3.

They will be standing still on the floor—but they will seem to be moving, for they have a quicksilver kind of beauty that just doesn't stand still.

Every line has a "machined rightness" to it, the sharp clear-cut stamp of beauty wrapped around power.

These are the best Fords of our lives.

They are the first symbols out of Detroit of the new automotive age that is beginning for you.

1957 came early this year.

This is where tomorrow starts—at your Ford Dealer's.

This is when your tomorrow starts—October 3rd.

Come in and see us for the Big New Kind of Ford!
